

RTD strike settlement reported near

By NOEL SWANN
Our L.A. Bureau

A major breakthrough in the 54-day Rapid Transit District strike appeared in the offing Friday night following a six-hour meeting attended by Gov. Reagan, Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, Mayor Tom Bradley and top union and management officials.

While all parties said that no final decision had been made or any agreements reached it was reliably learned that:

—A tentative agreement was worked out on the first year's pay package, with the RTD management making concessions to move much closer to the union demands.

—Both parties are still "extremely far apart" on the second year's contract.

—Union leadership feels confident its members would return to work either on the basis of negotiating the second year on-the-job or by settling for a one-year instead of a two-year contract.

—Acceptance of the first year's pay package would not mean a hike in the flat 25-cent fare.

Following the meeting in Hahn's eighth floor offices at the Hall of Administration, the principals told a press conference that management and union officials would resume negotiations Friday night, meeting with the state conciliation service. None, however, could or would say how long it might be before any decision would be announced.

There was a decided conflict of feeling at the press conference as to how successful the day's discussions had been.

Reagan noted the parties had "not been negotiating because this is not our function." However he said the earlier feeling generally held that both sides were taking an adamant stand and that there were no areas of negotiation "was dispelled."

The governor also said that all other efforts aimed at ending the strike, including his call for a "cooling off" period, would be held in abeyance "until we see how the (new) negotiations are developing."

Hahn, who arranged the meeting after a recent board order calling for his stronger participation, told the press conference, "I am one who sees great hope. If the union and management now continue to negotiate in good faith I think we will get a settlement."

Bradley, however, told the gathering he was "not as optimistic as some." He said he felt there still were sufficient differences which he felt would not be easy to settle.

Earl R. Clark, general chairman of the United Transportation Union (UTU), told the newsmen he felt "a little optimistic." He said he felt the session was useful because it had been the first chance to make the governor aware of what the disputes were about and how far apart the two groups were.

"However I feel we can now go back and get realistic negotiations and get this thing settled."

Kenneth R. Moore, international vice president of the UTU, did not speak at the press conference but later said, "I personally am not as optimistic as others. There was a good effort made on the first year, but on the second we are extremely far apart."

Asked if he felt the drivers would return to work presuming they were satisfied with the first year's

White House blocks wheat sale to Russia

By LEE EGERSTROM
Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON—Treasury Secretary William Simon announced late Friday night the U.S. government is blocking a huge sale of corn and wheat to the Soviet Union. In addition, the statement released by Simon's office said all exporters are being notified not to make any additional large contracts for corn and wheat sales abroad unless the arrangement has been approved in advance by the White House.

In a move that has miffed officials in the Treasury, Agriculture and State departments as well as the White House, it was learned Friday that Soviet buyers had contracted to purchase about 125 million bushels of corn and wheat from two large exporters. This purchase attempt has been made within the last two days, an Agriculture official said after the Treasury Department announcement. And the Soviet purchasing came as other nations and regular customers of American food commodities voluntarily pledged to hold off from large contract buying. President Ford has asked officials of Continental Grain Co. and the Cook Company to meet with him in Washington today.

Assistant Agriculture Secretary Clayton Yentler said the White House meeting will likely involve the President, Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz, Secretary of State Henry Kissinger and Simon. Among items for discussion at the meeting is how the White House will handle requests from exporting firms for large sales, and to determine what "large" contracts represent. The Agriculture Department now considers any sale or group of contracts involving 100,000 tons or more to be reported as "large."

The development came against a background of dwindling U.S. corn and wheat supplies coupled to repeated statements by Butz that the administration would attempt to avoid export rationing.

Government calculations for this year's U.S. grain crop have shown the corn harvest is estimated to be 11 per cent below last year's record harvest and soybeans are expected to be down 16 per cent. The wheat harvest was expected to be up around 5 per cent but worldwide demand was expected to be even higher.

The next official government estimate is scheduled to be released next Thursday, but rumors are circulating that recent frosts in the Midwest have further crippled a crop previously stunted by spring floods and summer drought.

The Treasury Department said Continental and Cook had entered contracts to sell 91 million bushels of corn and 34 million bushels of wheat to the Soviet Union.

A portion of those contracts are expected to be delivered by other exporting countries, it explained.

That action, coupled with rumors that Butz was about to leave office, sent commodity markets into a state of confusion Friday. The Agriculture Department denied the rumors about Butz, and confirmed late Friday that the secretary will make a hasty return from speaking appearances in California to attend the

Ford asks massive cut in spending

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford asked Congress Friday to either eliminate or postpone authorized spending of $3.4 billion — including more than $500 million for military defense programs — to hold down the federal budget and slow inflation.

These actions are essential both to assure efficient management of funds and to help keep federal spending from rising beyond current estimates," Ford said in a special message to the House and Senate.

"These are essential steps to achieve the degree of fiscal restraint we need in order to curb inflation."

Of the total, Ford proposed cutting out or "re-scinding" $182 million and postponing $3.23 billion.

Under a new law that took effect last July, the President must advise Congress of decisions to defer or rescind authorized funds.

In the case of deferrals, Ford's action will take effect automatically unless Congress votes within 60 days to reject it. In the case of rescissions, Congress must pass legislation in accord with Ford's request within 45 days or the funds will be spent as authorized.

On Sept. 20, in his first action under the new law, Ford asked Congress to defer $19.8 billion and rescind nearly $600 million.

In Friday's message, Ford said only $12 million in additional funds would be spent in the current fiscal year, which started July 1, if Congress refused to approve his request.

But he said federal spending would increase by over $220 million in the 1978 fiscal year and by greater amounts in follow-

Senate votes to void tape deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate voted Friday to cancel an arrangement that gave former President Richard Nixon custody of his White House tapes and papers.

The bill, which now goes to the House, is designed to prohibit destruction of the documents and to assure they are made available to the courts and public in the interest of learning the full story of Watergate.

The measure, approved 56 to 7, was attacked by senior Republicans as an unconstitutional, emotional reaction to Watergate. But even Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott and his assistant, Robert P. Griffin, voted for the measure after attempts to delay or dilute it failed.

The bill, sponsored by Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was prompted by the agreement, announced when Nixon was pardoned, giving the former president custody of all presidential documents accumulated during his years in office.

The agreement would allow Nixon to destroy any of his papers after three years, and any of his tapes after five years. But the tapes would have to be destroyed upon Nixon's death or no later than Sept. 1, 1984.

Meanwhile, the Senate Appropriations Committee voted to allow Nixon only $200,000 of the $850,000 President Ford had requested to help Nixon make the transition to private life.

The House already has approved the $200,000 figure, which includes the pension and minimal staff expenses allowed all former presidents.

The committee also specified that Nixon's tape recordings must be preserved until Congress passes legislation deciding how they should be handled.

That same provision was approved by the House Wednesday.

The bill passed by the Senate is based on the premise that Nixon's tapes and papers "contain additional evidence relating to the Watergate crimes."

Thus, the Government Operations Committee wrote in approving the bill, "The ultimate destruction of the tapes or other materials, coupled with the difficulties in obtaining access to the other Nixon materials, would be a fundamental violation of public policy."

17 skeletons in 'Corona area'

VINA (UPI) — Seventeen skeletons were unearthed Friday when a farmer tilling the ground on his ranch discovered five skeletons buried in a trench.

The skeletons were found in an agricultural area where the prosecutor of convicted mass slayer Juan V. Corona had predicted searchers would find more bodies. However, Tehama County Undersheriff Marvin Essex said the skeletons were too old to be linked to Corona.

The trench in which the bones were found "could possibly be a Chinese or Indian burial grounds, but there were no artifacts found," he added.

Essex said the skeletons appeared to be 60 to 100 years old. He added they were "real old, decomposed pretty much."

Deputies said a farmer was tilling the ground on his ranch near this tiny Northern California agricultural community when he discovered five skeletons buried in a trench.

Deputies were called and they found another 12 skeletons. Investigators said all the victims appeared to have been unclothed when buried. They said the cause of death was not immediately apparent.

Sutter County Dist. Atty. G. Dave Teja had repeatedly asserted that Corona had killed many others and buried them in Tehama County.

Corona, 40, was found guilty of killing 25 itinerant farm workers in 1971 and burying their bodies along the banks of the picturesque Feather River about 60 miles south of Vina.

Washington trip ruled out Fatigued Nixon goes home

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

Former President Richard M. Nixon left Memorial Hospital Medical Center of Long Beach shortly before noon Friday, physically exhausted from 12 days of tests and treatment.

His physician, Dr. John C. Lungren, said Nixon is even more fatigued now than when he entered the hospital for treatment of thrombophlebitis of the left leg (vein inflammation and clots). Later it was found that the former president also was suffering from a clot in his right lung.

Lungren said Nixon must now observe a period of "controlled restricted activities" and recommended that the former chief executive avoid any long airplane flights in the near future.

This medical advice virtually rules out the possibility that Nixon will attempt a flight to Washington, D. C., to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial.

Lungren also recommended against Nixon giving a deposition any time during the next few weeks.

The former president, he explained, needs a normal period of recovery for a few weeks from his "exhausting hospital regimen."

Nixon spent at least one sleepless night, Lungren revealed during a news conference held soon after Nixon's departure for his home in San Clemente.

Despite Nixon's haggard look on departure, Lungren announced that his patient had responded satisfactorily to treatment.

"The leg is less swollen," he said, "and the defect in the lung is resolved or smaller, and his anticoagulation therapy is well controlled."

Nixon now is taking the drug Coumadin, a medication given in an effort to prevent the formation of new clots.

Lungren said Nixon will continue to take the drug for a number of months. He said blood tests, conducted to control proper medication, will be performed periodically in the laboratory at Camp Pendleton, near Nixon's home. Lungren says he will visit Nixon's home "on a periodical basis."

Nixon will continue to wear a supportive stocking on the left leg at all times "when he is up and around."

Lungren said Nixon must avoid protracted periods of sitting, riding or standing, and periods of walking must be held short of muscle fatigue. The aim is to eliminate stagnation or sludging of blood in the venous system of the left leg, the doctor said.

The physician said that Nixon must continue to be watched closely to avoid any complication of anticoagulation therapy, such as hemorrhage (bleeding).

Lungren said restriction of Nixon's physical activities should last for one to three months.

Asked about Nixon's mental condition, Lungren said:

"His mind is sharp. I see no evidence of any problems in this area."

He said he had discussed with Nixon the matter of Nixon's going to Washington, but he wouldn't disclose what had been said.

Other doctors on the case discussed their roles as consultants.

Dr. Earl K. Dore, chief of the nuclear medicine department at the medical center, revealed that a "pancreas scan" showed

Antibusing march shuts 6 Boston schools

BOSTON (UPI) — Fearing for the safety of black students and teachers, officials Friday emptied six South Boston schools after 8,000 whites staged a boisterous antibusing parade down the main street of the racially troubled neighborhood. (See picture on Page A-2).

As thousands of white students heeded a call for a one-day school boycott, officials reported the first stabbing incident since a court-ordered busing plan to integrate the city's schools was implemented Sept. 12. A 15-year-old white youth was cut on the arm in a fight with blacks near Roslindale High School.

The City Hall Information Center said the youth, who was treated and released at Faulkner Hospital, was approached by about 15 black youths. One said to him, "Hey man, what are you going to school for, don't you know there's a boycott?"

The white youth reportedly started walking away when he was attacked. Officials said one of the boy's arms was cut by a knife or razor.

Black students at South Boston schools were bused out shortly before noon when officials became concerned that rowdy white youths from the massive antibusing march might cause trouble at the schools after the event. Faculty members were sent home.

John Coakley, School Department integration coordinator, said the move was taken for the "safety and security of pupils because of the concern about the movement around the area by the demonstrators."

About 3,000 antibusing white parents and students gathered at Marine Park in South Boston and heard speeches by local political leaders, including City Councilor Louise Day Hicks, the fiery former school committee member, who has become a symbol of Boston busing opposition.

In a rare appearance at an antibusing rally, state Sen. William M. Bulger, D-Boston, praised the people of South Boston for "great restraint in the face of the worst of injustices."

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy and Edward W. Brooke along with U.S. District Judge W. Arthur Garrity, who ordered the busing, "can bus their own kids, but we won't have ours," Bulger told the cheering group.

The demonstrators, many dressed in colonial costumes, waved American flags, sang "God Bless America" and chanted "Here we go Southie!"

On the march

Thousands of white students boycotted classes and joined parents in a noisy, 3½-mile protest march through South Boston Friday on 16th day of a court-ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools. Police say as many as 8,000 persons participated in march.

Ford backs urban transit plan

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — The White House said Friday a revised $11.8-billion mass transit bill containing long-term measures to help solve urban transportation problems will win President Ford's approval if kept in its present form. The legislation had been considered dead — because of threatened rejection by Ford — until House-Senate conferees abandoned the Senate's short-term subsidy approach and agreed on a six-year program containing an ambitious mass transit construction and improvement plan. Although $800 million above the amount Ford had said was proper, the bill's provisions "appear to be directly in line with the President's guidelines," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said. The comprehensive legislation would provide state and local governments with about $7.8 billion in construction and improvement grants, and about $4 billion in operating grants to make up fare-box deficits.

Chinese gifts at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Two Chinese gifts to the United Nations — a huge, brilliantly colored tapestry of China's Great Wall and an ivory carving of a recently completed railway project — went on display at U.N. Headquarters Friday. The tapestry, which measures about 30 by 15 feet and dominates a wall of the U.N. delegates' lounge, depicts the famous wall winding through rugged mountains and forests bathed in sunshine. Although construction of the great wall dates to the 5th century B.C., the tapestry is a rendition of the wall today — complete with three parked automobiles visible. The ivory carving of a section of the Chengtu-Kunming railway, was made from eight tusks, weighs about 330 pounds, and stands about 4½ feet long and 3½ feet tall. The intricately carved sculpture is a landscape of a modern construction site of the railway, which was opened in 1970.

Fiat curtails jobs of 65,000

ROME — Fiat, Italy's largest private employer, put one-third of its 200,000 workers on a 24-hour week Friday as the nation's economic plight worsened. Meantime, the Communists bid for posts in a new coalition government to replace the one which resigned Thursday. Fiat said 65,000 workers would begin the short work week Monday, but promised the reduction in hours would not go beyond Jan. 1 and that affected workers would get money from a state fund to help them out. The normal work week is 40 hours. Fiat, which already has 390,000 unsold cars on its hands, said it must cut back 200,000 more cars by the end of the year. Sales have dropped by an average 30 per cent this year because of higher model prices, higher gasoline prices and austerity moves reflecting worldwide problems of the auto industry.

Italy's 36th cabinet since World War II fell Thursday, opening opportunities for the powerful Communist Party which has been locked out of the government for a quarter of a century. The Western allies fear Communists in a new government would try to take Italy's forces out of NATO, weakening the alliance still further following Greece's pullout during the Cyprus crisis.

AF to halt air drops

BANGKOK, Thailand — The U.S. Air Force is expected within 10 days to turn over all its air drop activities in Cambodia to a civilian airline with links to the Central Intelligence Agency, American military officials said Friday. A U.S. military spokesman said parachute drops by the airline, Bird Air, have already started and that after a transition period the airline will have complete responsibility for the supply missions under a $1.76-million contract

Foreign mining flap

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Reynolds Metals Co. appears to be abandoning mines in Guyana which produce 10 per cent of the company's aluminum ore because of a dispute over taxes and nationalization. The Richmond, Va., firm said it would not pay the $3.5 million due today covering the first two quarters of the year and that it had begun legal action in Guyana challenging the legality of the tax. The firm's five American and European employees have left or are leaving the country on the northeast coast of South America and 1,000 Guyanese employees were reported to be running the operation. The Guyana government accused Reynolds of trying to create the erroneous impression Guyana was confiscating the $20 million facilities for mining bauxite, the raw material of aluminum. That would enable Reynolds to recover a substantial part of its loss from U.S. government insurance through the Overseas Private Investment Corp. Reynolds, the world's third largest aluminum company had first half profits this year of $52.5 million, up 47 per cent from 1973.

Multiracial election

HONOLULU — Hawaii's multiracial electorate votes today in a primary election that may make the 50th state the first to put orientals into all top offices. George Ariyoshi, the lieutenant governor who became acting chief executive a year ago when Gov. John Burns was stricken with cancer, hopes to become the first American of Japanese ancestry elected governor of a state. An Ariyoshi victory in many islanders' minds would be the culmination of Hawaii's version of the American Dream, in which the son of a sumo wrestler became an attorney and then went on to win the highest elective office in the state. Since Hawaii is a longtime Democratic stronghold, Democratic nomination is often tantamount to election.

Aftershocks jar Peru

LIMA — More than 130 aftershocks shook Peru Friday as Lima and several other cities along the country's western seaboard dug out from under the rubble of a strong earthquake that left at least 63 persons killed, thousands injured and tens of thousands homeless. Thursday's earthquake registered 6.8 on the open-end Richter scale and was centered 30 miles out in the Pacific, off Canete south of Lima. Damages were estimated in millions of dollars, with nearly 2,300 houses destroyed and more than 11,300 damaged. Civil defense spokesmen said 464 damaged houses had been knocked down by cleanup crews to prevent further injuries and more than 1,000 tents were distributed to homeless families.

No 'deal' in kidnap

SANTO DOMINGO — After a week of silence, the Dominican government announced late Friday night that there had never been and never will be any negotiations with a group of armed pro-Castro extremists who are holding seven hostages including an American woman diplomat. The group seized the Venezuelan consulate along with the hostages Sept. 27 and has since demanded the release of three dozen political prisoners from Dominican jails.

$50,000 Kissinger gift by Rocky told

Combined News Services
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger received a $50,000 gift from Nelson A. Rockefeller when Kissinger left Rockefeller's staff to join the Nixon administration, a spokesman for the secretary of state said Friday night in Washington.

"In early 1969, after Dr. Kissinger left Gov. Rockefeller's employ and before joining the White House staff, Rockefeller told Kissinger he wanted to make a $50,000 gift to him at the close of their 15-year association," said Paul Hare, the spokesman.

He said Kissinger put the $50,000 into trusts for his two children and filed gift-tax returns.

Kissinger served as an adviser on foreign policy to Rockefeller for many years. Rockefeller then was governor of New York.

The Gannett newspaper chain first disclosed the gift to Kissinger. The newspaper story also reported that Rockefeller gave substantial amounts of money to various associates in public life.

The story quoted congressional sources and said the information on the gifts was submitted to congressional committees conducting confirmation hearings on Rockefeller's nomination.

It said there were unconfirmed reports that an $86,000 gift was made to L. Judson Morhouse, former New York State

Last try

In 38 years, three hearts have beaten in Ralph Trout III's breast, but he died on Friday as the third stopped beating after his second heart transplant.

Trout, who played an organ at a pizza parlor in Redwood City on the San Francisco Peninsula, died at Stanford University Hospital after surviving just 13 days with his newest heart.

He had been Stanford's longest living transplant patient and the second person to undergo a second transplant operation there. Cause of death was not immediately known.

The 35-year-old balding, red-bearded man received his third heart on Sept. 22, after doctors said the second heart had degenerated because of disease.

Trout received his second heart, that of a 13-year-old boy who committed suicide, on May 22, 1969.

Citizen

The Senate voted Friday to confer honorary citizenship on Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Nobel Prize-winning Soviet author and intellectual who made himself a voice for freedom.

Honorary citizenship previously had been bestowed on the French statesman the Marquis de Lafayette prior to the establishment of Congress and on Winston Churchill, Great Britain's World War II leader, in 1953.

Back to work

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger returned to work Friday at the Supreme Court, two weeks after being struck by a hit-and-run driver and knocked from his bicycle.

Burger wears a sling intermittently on his left arm and may be wearing it under his judicial gown when he presides Monday at the opening of the court's new term. His left shoulder was dislocated in the accident.

The chief justice also has a cast on the broken ring finger of his right hand.

Check-ups which continued after Burger was released from Bethesda Naval Hospital last week disclosed that he actually suffered five rib fractures, not two as originally believed, and broke two fingers on his right hand.

Ailing

Terence Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of New York, has contracted malaria after a six-day trip to West Africa to visit the drought-stricken sub-Saharan region.

A spokesman for the archdiocese said the cardinal complained of feeling ill upon his return to New York Friday and doctors later diagnosed the problem as malaria. A planned visit with President Ford and statements about the African famine will be postponed until Cooke's recovery.

The distribution program is oriented towards persons in emergency situations needing essential food and shelter. About 1,900 persons received emergency aid at the center last year and 40,650 items of mostly-used clothing were donated.

Relicensed

I have been arrested twice for drunk driving and was convicted both times. I would like to know how I can get my license reinstated. I was told by the Department of Motor Vehicles that it is up to the courts and by a judge that it is the DMV's responsibility.
G.F., Long Beach.

In order to have your license reinstated the suspension period must have expired and you must then file proof of ability to cover damages in an accident through either automobile insurance or a bond deposit equal to insurance coverage, according to Calvin Pitts, public information director of the Department of Motor Vehicles. Pitts said you can go to any local DMV office to file the appropriate form. The DMV is notified by the courts of license suspensions and, consequently, will have a record of the time limit.

TV time

I watch the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite nightly. I understand that we who live in California receive a tape of this program which is broadcast live in the eastern United States. Whenever there is an important news event the network wants to have a special program on later in the evening, Cronkite will say something like "Tune in a 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time or 9 o'clock Central." Is there a system those of us in California can use to find out when that special program will be shown here? I know there is a three-hour time difference but that doesn't seem to help me determine the exact time. The same problem exists with NBC and ABC. J.H., Long Beach.

A spokesman for CBS Television in New York told ACTION LINE that 85 to 90 per cent of the time the scheduled program hour for the eastern United States will be the same for the western United States — that is if the program is scheduled for 10 p.m. EST it will be shown at 10 p.m. PST. The spokesman said there are exceptions to this guideline and they are usually news events such as a major presidential address which would be covered live.

Exam

In August, I applied for a part-time bus driver job with the Pinetree Bus Co. 1175 E. Spring St. I was required to pay $12 for a physical exam before starting the driver training. A supervisor said the $12 would be refunded. I didn't get the job. When I called the company the other day to ask for my $12 back, I was told I would not get it. Can you help? Mrs. S.R., Long Beach

No. You apparently misunderstood, according to Margaret Boelcke, administrative director of the company. She said only persons who complete the training, then go to work for the company for 90 days, have their $12 refunded. She maintained this is made clear to all applicants. Company records show you dropped out of the training sessions.

Starvation ruled killer of 2-year-old; pair held

SAN JOSE (AP) — "This was a homicide, a neglected child," the assistant coroner said Friday, but he ruled that starvation was the killer of a 2½-month-old girl whose body was infested with maggots.

Elizabeth Hernandez's death was "caused by dehydration and malnutrition due to starvation," said Dr. Chan Lee, assistant Santa Clara County medical examiner.

Her parents, Severo Hernandez, 37, and his common-law wife Rose Salinas, have been jailed and booked for investigation of child neglect and abuse.

They are being held in lieu of $25,000 bail.

Shell price cut

SAN MATEO (AP) — Shell Oil Co. said Friday it would reduce the wholesale price of gasoline by 2 cents a gallon today, partly to reflect lower crude oil costs.

Union huddle on oil pipeline slated Monday

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — West Coast longshore union leaders will meet here Monday to discuss jurisdictional disputes with other unions over shipments of heavy equipment for the Alaska pipeline project.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union termed the potential conflicts serious. It said they include handling cargo for the big barges that are expected to carry heavy equipment to the far northern oil fields.

4 booked in furniture theft

PASADENA (AP) — Four college students have been booked for investigation of burglary and grand theft after officers found two homes packed with 600 items of antique furniture, police said Friday.

"Everything was just stacked in," said officer Jerry Ferguson. "They weren't placed in as if they belonged there. The officers were just walking around in between furniture."

Officers went to the two residences, armed with search warrants, after homeowners had been reporting their potted plants were disappearing.

The potted plants turned up amid the antiques, police reported. They added that three of the students had been living in one of the jam-packed houses.

"We have no idea why they chose antiques," Ferguson said. "We still don't have any statements. We're still working on motives and how they were going to get rid of it."

Ferguson identified the four, booked Thursday, as Richard Robinson, 21; James Wright, 18; Henry Leo, 21 and Brian Cohan, 20, all students at Pasadena City College.

On the march

Thousands of white students boycotted classes and joined parents in a noisy, 3½-mile protest march through South Boston Friday on 16th day of a court-ordered plan to integrate Boston's public schools. Police say as many as 8,000 persons participated in march.

Ford backs urban transit plan

Combined News Services

WASHINGTON — The White House said Friday a revised $11.8-billion mass transit bill containing long-term measures to help solve urban transportation problems will win President Ford's approval if kept in its present form. The legislation had been considered dead — because of threatened rejection by Ford — until House-Senate conferees abandoned the Senate's short-term subsidy approach and agreed on a six-year program containing an ambitious mass transit construction and improvement plan. Although $800 million above the amount Ford had said was proper, the bill's provisions "appear to be directly in line with the President's guidelines," White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen said. The comprehensive legislation would provide state and local governments with about $7.8 billion in construction and improvement grants, and about $4 billion in operating grants to make up fare-box deficits.

Chinese gifts at U.N.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. — Two Chinese gifts to the United Nations — a huge, brilliantly colored tapestry of China's Great Wall and an ivory carving of a recently completed railway project — went on display at U.N. Headquarters Friday. The tapestry, which measures about 30 by 15 feet and dominates a wall of the U.N. delegates' lounge, depicts the famous wall winding through rugged mountains and forests bathed in sunshine. Although construction of the great wall dates to the 5th century B.C., the tapestry is a rendition of the wall today — complete with three parked automobiles visible. The ivory carving of a section of the Chengtu-Kunming railway, was made from eight tusks, weighs about 330 pounds, and stands about 4½ feet long and 3½ feet tall. The intricately carved sculpture is a landscape of a modern construction site of the railway, which was opened in 1970.

Fiat curtails jobs of 65,000

ROME — Fiat, Italy's largest private employer, put one-third of its 200,000 workers on a 24-hour week Friday as the nation's economic plight worsened. Meantime, the Communists bid for posts in a new coalition government to replace the one which resigned Thursday. Fiat said 65,000 workers would begin the short work week Monday, but promised the reduction in hours would not go beyond Jan. 1 and that affected workers would get money from a state fund to help them out. The normal work week is 40 hours. Fiat, which already has 300,000 unsold cars on its hands, said it must cut back 200,000 more cars by the end of the year. Sales have dropped by an average 30 per cent this year because of higher model prices, higher gasoline prices and austerity moves reflecting worldwide problems of the auto industry.

Italy's 36th cabinet since World War II fell Thursday, opening opportunities for the powerful Communist Party which has been locked out of the government for a quarter of a century. The Western allies fear Communists in a new government would try to take Italy's forces out of NATO, weakening the alliance still further following Greece's pullout during the Cyprus crisis.

AF to halt air drops

BANGKOK, Thailand — The U.S. Air Force is expected within 10 days to turn over all its air-drop activities in Cambodia to a civilian airline with links to the Central Intelligence Agency, American military officials said Friday. A U.S. military spokesman said parachute drops by the airline, Bird Air, have already started and that after a transition period the airline will have complete responsibility for the supply missions under a $1.76-million contract

Foreign mining flap

NEW YORK, N.Y. — Reynolds Metals Co. appears to be abandoning mines in Guyana which produce 10 per cent of the company's aluminum ore because of a dispute over taxes and nationalization. The Richmond, Va., firm said it would not pay the $3.5 million due today covering the first two quarters of the year and that it had begun legal action in Guyana challenging the legality of the tax. The firm's five American and European employees have left or are leaving the country on the northeast coast of South America and 1,000 Guyanese employees were reported to be running the operation. The Guyana government accused Reynolds of trying to create the erroneous impression Guyana was confiscating the $20 million facilities for mining bauxite, the raw material of aluminum. That would enable Reynolds to recover a substantial part of its loss from U.S. government insurance through the Overseas Private Investment Corp. Reynolds, the world's third largest aluminum company had first half profits this year of $52.5 million, up 477 per cent from 1973.

Multiracial election

HONOLULU — Hawaii's multiracial electorate votes today in a primary election that may make the 50th state the first to put orientals into all top offices. George Ariyoshi, the lieutenant governor who became acting chief executive a year ago when Gov. John Burns was stricken with cancer, hopes to become the first American of Japanese ancestry elected governor of a state. An Ariyoshi victory in many islanders' minds would be the culmination of Hawaii's version of the American Dream, in which the son of a sumo wrestler became an attorney and then went on to win the highest elective office in the state. Since Hawaii is a longtime Democratic stronghold, Democratic nomination is often tantamount to election.

announced last week by the Pentagon. According to the contract, Bird Air will use five C130 transports owned by the Air Force but flown by civilian air crews. The flights originate at U Tapao Air Base in Thailand. During the 1960s, Bird Air flew supplies in support of CIA covert operations in the Indochina kingdom of Laos, according to U.S. sources. It still maintains a charter operation in Laos.

Aftershocks jar Peru

LIMA — More than 130 aftershocks shook Peru Friday as Lima and several other cities along the country's western seaboard dug out from under the rubble of a strong earthquake that left at least 68 persons killed, thousands injured and tens of thousands homeless. Thursday's earthquake registered 6.8 on the open-end Richter scale and was centered 30 miles out in the Pacific, off Canete south of Lima. Damages were estimated in millions of dollars, with nearly 2,300 houses destroyed and more than 11,300 damaged. Civil defense spokesmen said 464 damaged houses had been knocked down by cleanup crews to prevent further injuries and more than 1,000 tents were distributed to homeless families.

No 'deal' in kidnap

SANTO DOMINGO — After a week of silence, the Dominican government announced late Friday night that there had never been and never will be any negotiations with a group of armed pro-Castro extremists who are holding seven hostages including an American woman diplomat. The group seized the Venezuelan consulate along with the hostages Sept. 27 and has since demanded the release of three dozen political prisoners from Dominican jails.

$50,000 Kissinger gift by Rocky told

Combined News Services
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger received a $50,000 gift from Nelson A. Rockefeller when Kissinger left Rockefeller's staff to join the Nixon administration, a spokesman for the secretary of state said Friday night in Washington.

"In early 1969, after Dr. Kissinger left Gov. Rockefeller's employ and before joining the White House staff, Rockefeller told Kissinger he wanted to make a $50,000 gift to him at the close of their 15-year association," said Paul Hare, the spokesman.

He said Kissinger put the $50,000 into trusts for his two children and filed gift-tax returns.

Kissinger served as an adviser on foreign policy to Rockefeller for many years. Rockefeller then was governor of New York.

The Gannett newspaper chain first disclosed the gift to Kissinger. The newspaper story also reported that Rockefeller gave substantial amounts of money to various associates in public life.

The story quoted congressional sources and said the information on the gifts was submitted to congressional committees conducting confirmation hearings on Rockefeller's nomination.

It said there were unconfirmed reports that an $86,000 gift was made to L. Judson Morhouse, former New York State

Antiwar chat

Actress Jane Fonda and Daniel Ellsberg, who leaked Pentagon Papers to news media, chat on park bench in San Diego before speaking at college as part of Indochina Peace Campaign. Both were critical of former President Richard Nixon in their talks.

Republican chairman instrumental in Rockefeller's first nomination as GOP gubernatorial candidate. Morhouse was convicted in 1966 for bribery in the granting of state liquor licenses and was pardoned by Rockefeller in December 1970 on the ground of ill health.

Last try

In 38 years, three hearts have beaten in Ralph Trout III's breast, but he died on Friday as the third stopped beating after his second heart transplant.

Trout, who played an organ at a pizza parlor in Redwood City on the San Francisco Peninsula, died at Stanford University Hospital after surviving just 13 days with his new heart.

He had been Stanford's longest living transplant patient and the second person to undergo a second transplant operation there. Cause of death was not immediately known.

The 38-year-old balding, red-bearded man received his third heart on Sept. 22, after doctors said the second heart had degenerated because of disease.

Trout received his second heart, that of a 13-year-old boy who committed suicide, on May 22, 1969.

Back to work

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger returned to work Friday at the Supreme Court, two weeks after being struck by a hit-and-run driver and knocked from his bicycle.

Burger wears a sling intermittently on his left arm and may be wearing it under his judicial gown when he presides Monday at the opening of the court's new term. His left shoulder was dislocated in the accident.

The chief justice also has a cast on the broken ring finger of his right hand.

Check-ups which continued after Burger was released from Bethesda Naval Hospital last week disclosed that he actually suffered five rib fractures, not two as originally believed, and broke two fingers on his right hand.

Ailing

Terence Cardinal Cooke, archbishop of New York, has contracted malaria after a six-day trip to West Africa to visit the drought-stricken sub-Saharan region.

A spokesman for the archdiocese said the cardinal complained of feeling ill upon his return to New York Friday and doctors later diagnosed the problem as malaria. A planned visit with President Ford and statements about the African famine will be postponed until Cooke's recovery.

Citizen

The Senate voted Friday to confer honorary citizenship on Alexander Solzhenitsyn, the Nobel Prize-winning Soviet author and intellectual who made himself a voice for freedom.

Honorary citizenship previously had been bestowed on the French statesman the Marquis de LaFayette prior to the establishment of Congress and on Winston Churchill, Great Britain's World War II leader, in 1963.

Free clothes

I used to be a volunteer worker at the East Long Beach Neighborhood Center, 2338 E. Anaheim St. My grandson, 7, badly needs clothing but I understand the center now makes you pay for clothing, even though it is donated. Is this true? Mrs. H.D., Long Beach.

"It has never been our policy to charge anyone for our clothing service," said Tom Blackburn, the center's administrative assistant. Your grandson can get clothes during regular distribution hours on Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m. Clothing is sorted by center volunteers and given to anyone requesting it and willing to sign a receipt, Blackburn said. The distribution program is oriented towards persons in emergency situations needing essential food and shelter. About 1,000 persons received emergency aid at the center last year and 10,650 items of mostly-used clothing were donated.

Relicensed

I have been arrested twice for drunk driving and was convicted both times. I would like to know how I can get my license reinstated. I was told by the Department of Motor Vehicles that it is up to the courts and by a judge that it is the DMV's responsibility. G.F., Long Beach.

In order to have your license reinstated the suspension period must have expired and you must then file proof of ability to cover damages in an accident through either automobile insurance or a bond deposit equal to insurance coverage, according to Calvin Pitts, public information director of the Department of Motor Vehicles. Pitts said you can go to any local DMV office to file the appropriate form. The DMV is notified by the courts of license suspensions and, consequently, will have a record of the time limit.

TV time

I watch the CBS Evening News with Walter Cronkite nightly. I understand that we who live in California receive a tape of this program which is broadcast live in the eastern United States. Whenever there is an important news event the network wants to have a special program on later in the evening, Cronkite will say something like "Tune in a 10 o'clock Eastern Standard Time or 9 o'clock Central." Is there a system those of us in California can use to find out when that special program will be shown here? I know there is a three-hour time difference but that doesn't seem to help me determine the exact time. The same problem exists with NBC and ABC. J.H., Long Beach.

A spokesman for CBS Television in New York told ACTION LINE that 85 to 90 per cent of the time the scheduled program hour for the eastern United States will be the same for the western United States — that is if the program is scheduled for 10 p.m. EST it will be shown at 10 p.m. PST. The spokesman said there are exceptions to this guideline and they are usually news events such as a major presidential address which would be covered live.

Exam

In August, I applied for a part-time bus driver job with the Pinetree Bus Co. 1175 E. Spring St. I was required to pay $12 for a physical exam before starting the driver training. A supervisor said the $12 would be refunded. I didn't get the job. When I called the company the other day to ask for my $12 back, I was told I would not get it. Can you help? Mrs. S.R., Long Beach.

No. You apparently misunderstood, according to Margaret Bochnke, administrative director of the company. She said only persons who complete the training, then go to work for the company for 30 days, have their $12 refunded. She maintained this is made clear to all applicants. Company records show you dropped out of the training sessions.

Municipal Court Judge Lawrence Terry rejected a request by the mother on Thursday that she be released on her own recognizance to attend her daughter's funeral.

The coroner's office said the child's body had not been claimed and it knew of no funeral arrangements.

Two other young children from the same home have been taken into county custody. One of the children required hospitalization.

Calif. jobless rate zips past U.S. figure

Combined News Services

Unemployment in California zoomed from 7.6 per cent to 8.2 per cent of the work force in September—the largest monthly increase since 1958, the state reported Friday.

It put the unemployment average at a 35-month high for California and far above the national rate of 5.8 per cent.

The Employment Development Department said it was the highest unemployment since October 1971, when it was 8.5 per cent.

NOT IN 16 years has the figure risen so much in a single month. The department said the last time was between March and April of 1958 when unemployment jumped from 6.7 to 8 per cent.

The total number of Californians out of work last month was reported at 651,000, compared to 536,400 during the same period last year.

Sharp employment drops were reported in construction and manufacturing. Hard-hit industries included lumber, autos, household appliances, structural metals and plumbing and heating equipment.

Population increases and the peak harvest season in agricultural fields combined to push the total number of persons holding down jobs in September to an all-time high of 8.5 million.

Normally, the demands from agriculture and the loss of other summer jobseekers cause a big drop in unemployment during September.

But the department said "the decline was substantially less than expected," driving the seasonally adjusted average to its present height.

MEANWHILE, in Washington, the Bureau of Labor Statistics estimated 250,000 Americans lost their jobs during September as unemployment in all categories reached 5.3 million, the highest since April, 1972.

Total nonfarm employment was estimated at 77.1 million, unchanged from August and an increase of 1.4 million over the past year. Employment in all categories including migrant workers and excluding military personnel was 91.9 million.

The biggest layoff problem was in the construction industry where housing starts have declined 50 per cent over the last year. An estimated 12.4 per cent of all construction workers were without jobs in September—a number usually reached only during the cold months of January and February.

AFL-CIO President George Meany blamed the increase in joblessness on what he said was the Ford administration's continuation of economic policies of former President Richard M. Nixon — "creating unemployment to cure inflation."

Meany again urged President Ford to fire White House economic advisers who are holdovers from the Nixon administration.

AT THE White House, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said of the unemployment report: "It is a big jump, but it is in line with expectations made earlier this year." He also said the administration has "contingency plans" for helping alleviate the problem if necessary, but declined to go into details.

Governor's mansion building job awarded

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The long battle by Ronald Reagan for construction of a new governor's mansion peaked with the award Friday of a $13 million contract for an expansive riverfront villa.

State Architect John Worsley announced that Redwood City contractor Budd O. Stevenson won the contract for the disputed, court-stalled project as the lowest of three bidders.

WORSLEY said workers tentatively will begin construction next week and that "if all goes right it could be finished by August of next year."

Formal award followed removal of the last stumbling block to the project when the State Supreme Court rebuffed mansion opponents. The high court upheld two lower court rulings that the state had followed proper environmental protection procedures in approving construction of the mansion in suburban Carmichael, eight miles east of Sacramento.

Called an "executive residence" by the administration, the mansion will be built on a pastoral bluff overlooking the scenic American River. The 11-acre site was donated to the state by a group of Reagan supporters.

The living area will total 12,000 square feet, about seven times the size of an average three-bedroom California home. The one-story home will be enclosed by adobe brick walls, covered with wood-beam ceilings and an expansive red tile roof and will have hand-crafted tile floors.

A COURTYARD will lead inside to a living room, study, six bedrooms, two rooms for hired help, a dining room that can seat 40 guests and a recreation room.

Reagan has called it "lovely."

Worsley said that for an additional $180,000 the mansion could also include a swimming pool, sauna, tennis court, security guard house and solar unit to heat water.

Harmer takes oath

State Sen. John Harmer is sworn in as California's new lieutenant governor Friday after his appointment by Gov. Reagan to fill the post vacated by Ed Reinecke, who was forced to resign in the wake of a perjury conviction. Harmer's wife, Carolyn, holds the Bible as the oath is administered by U.S. Judge Thaxton Hanson at the State Building in Los Angeles.

Reagan to sign pension reform bill in Downey

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Gov. Reagan announced Friday he will sign the Democratic-authored pension reform bill Monday at an all-Republican show in Downey.

The ceremony will be staged when Reagan attends a fund-raising luncheon for freshman Assemblyman Bob McLennan, a Republican who originally sponsored pension repeal legislation but found the issue taken away from him by Democrats in the special legislative session.

The bill will end early retirement bonuses for lameduck lawmakers and also cut nearly in half Reagan's own pension, from about $32,000 to approximately $18,000 a year.

McLennan is locked in a fierce election battle with veteran Democratic Assemblyman Joe A. Gonsalves of Cerritos to represent the 63rd Assembly District.

Besides McLennan, Assembly Republican leader Bob Beverly and Senate GOP leader George Deukmejian will attend the bill-signing ceremony.

The bill was authored by Assemblyman Bob Wilson, a La Mesa Democrat who faces a tough reelection contest. Beverly said Wilson was "handpicked" by the Democratic leadership to carry the "pirated" bill because he is "among the most vulnerable incumbents."

Wilson said in an interview he had asked to be present at the bill-signing ceremony but "the governor refused to allow me to be there." Even though not invited, Wilson said, "I'm going to try to be there."

Reagan's office confirmed Wilson had not been invited.

Although Reagan occasionally signs legislation at ceremonies outside Sacramento, it was believed unprecedented for him to sign a bill in the district of a lawmaker who was not the lead author of the proposal.

"I doubt if Gov. Reagan has done it before, but we don't have a record of that," said a spokesman.

He said the Downey fund-raiser for McLennan had been scheduled previously and "considering that McLennan was the legislator who raised the issue during the regular session, it seemed appropriate" to sign the bill there.

Gonsalves, a 12-year veteran running against freshman McLennan, called Reagan's appearance a "campaign gimmick."

Flournoy's daughter steals show on TV

By SUSAN SWARD
SACRAMENTO (AP) — Republican Houston Flournoy appeared on a Sacramento television show, but his 3½-year-old daughter stole the show.

Democrat Edmund Brown was in San Francisco talking to a businessmen's luncheon.

It was Friday — a little more than one month away from the Nov. 5 election — and the candidates were moving along at the push-push pace that has been slowly building in the race to succeed Ronald Reagan as governor of California.

THE DEADLINE for voters to register for the Nov. 5 election is Sunday, and next Tuesday is the date of the only debate between the two candidates on statewide television.

Flournoy, the state's 44-year-old controller, was on KCRA TV's noon hour show with his wife Midge and three children when Anne, a talkative tot, started babbling and giggling off screen.

The GOP candidate was saying a poll which showed him 14 points behind Brown in August didn't reflect the true picture. That was when the first giggles were heard off camera. The camera focused on Anne.

THEN AN interviewer asked her about what it meant to her to have her father running for governor. She let out an unintelligible babble and then made several grabs for the microphone.

In San Francisco, the scene was not quite so hectic. Brown was at the Commonwealth Club talking about oil firms and energy.

The Democratic secretary of state attacked four large companies for slowing down the search for alternative power sources. Brown said the companies — Union, Standard, Southern Pacific Land and Magma Power — have leased 70 per cent of private land in Imperial Valley with potential for geothermal power.

BROWN added a report by a legislative committee official said the four have taken out permits to look for geothermal power on only eight per cent of the land.

In other developments: Flournoy told a Sacramento news conference he would sign a bill pumping millions into inflation-squeezed school districts if he became governor. Reagan vetoed a similar bill last month.

The GOP controller also said Reagan should call another special legislative session if union leaders in the Southern California bus strike don't agree to a cooling-off period.

—Republican Brian Van Camp, a former Reagan administration corporate secretary of state, told a KCRA interviewer he was finding many voters apathetic. "This is just not the time to sit down and complain," he said. He criticized his opponent, Democratic Assemblywoman March Fong, for not removing herself enough from Sacramento's politics-as-usual approach.

—Democrat William Norris, candidate for attorney general, advocated massive reforms of the state's correctional system. He said 80 per cent of felonies in the state are committed by persons who have committed another crime before.

—The San Francisco Consumer Action group said both candidates should include the consumer issue among their topics for statewide debates. The group said they wanted both men to talk about the Reagan administration's Department of Consumer Affairs. Critics have argued the department is a storefront operation.

Specialist says Nixon OK to fly

BY BEN ZINER
Medical-Science Editor

A rehabilitation specialist said Friday there's no reason that former President Nixon can't fly to Washington, D. C., to testify in the Watergate cover-up trial whenever he wants to.

The specialist, Dr. Herbert Kent, said that special precautions would have to be followed, however.

Yet, if the former president takes the precautions, it would be no more harmful to fly than to stay home, Kent said.

Kent, a board-certified physician in the specialty of physical medicine and rehabilitation, is chief of rehabilitation medicine at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital.

The physician said Nixon would be in no danger if he were to fly in a private plane equipped with a bed.

He recommended that the former chief executive lie down part of the time and walk around the plane cabin from time to time.

"There is no reason why he can't go to Washington," Kent asserted.

Kent said that a doctor assumes that if a phlebitis patient is on anticoagulant therapy and is discharged from a hospital, that patient is in no immediate danger.

Kent said that a witness with a phlebitis problem shouldn't be required to sit too long.

But if court would recess for 15 to 30 minutes every hour, "then you'd be safe," Kent said.

The witness should also be permitted to stand up and sit down several times every 15 minutes, "to put pressure on the calf muscles." This would help to avoid circulation troubles, the doctor said.

Negative exposure develops expletives

"I guess I'll forever be known as the photographer who didn't click," Kent Henderson said ruefully.

Henderson, a 40-year-old Independent Press-Telegram staff lensman, was talking about his widely publicized encounter with former President Richard M. Nixon at Memorial Hospital Wednesday.

Kent had lurked outside Nixon's room for two hours waiting to grab a shot of his reluctant subject. When Nixon finally was brought out in a wheel chair and spotted Henderson he shouted "You goddam son-of-a-bitch!"

Henderson had his camera up in a dead aim, but was so stunned by Nixon's outburst he forgot to pull the trigger.

"My finger froze, and suddenly he was pulled back into the room before I could recover. It was sort of like trying to shoot a shark under water," explained Kent, a dedicated enthusiast of undersea photography.

Kent said he didn't mind the undeleted expletive so much—newspaper photographers often get similar opinions on their parentage—but it was the suddenness and fervor that unnerved him.

"What makes it worse, I've always been a strong supporter of Nixon," he added plaintively. "I once got a tie clasp with the presidential seal and a personal letter from him, thanking me for pictures I sent him of Julie Nixon Eisenhower touring a hospital here about a year and a half ago."

But Kent's troubles weren't confined to the hospital. They continued when he returned to the newspaper office and told City Editor Lee Craig and Assistant Managing Editor Bert Resnik what happened.

"You mean you didn't get a picture?" Craig demanded incredulously.

"I told you, he called me a goddam son-of-a-bitch and it startled me so much I didn't shoot," Kent argued.

"You goddam son-of-a-bitch," Craig and Resnik said in unison.

Nixon a security risk, Moss says

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., has charged that former President Richard M. Nixon is a "security risk" and should no longer be given classified briefings by the government.

In a letter to President Ford, Moss, chairman of a subcommittee dealing with government information policies, said Nixon was guilty of illegal acts and therefore ineligible for the secret briefings he has been receiving since he resigned.

"It is my opinion that, due to the circumstances which led to the resignation of your predecessor, Richard M. Nixon, and his subsequent acceptance of a pardon, that Mr. Nixon is guilty of illegal acts," Moss wrote Ford.

MOSS noted that Ford himself said at a press conference that acceptance of a pardon could be construed as admission of guilt, and that vice presidential nominee Nelson Rockefeller testified that acceptance of a pardon was "tantamount to admitting guilt."

"I submit that under these conditions that Richard M. Nixon would be judged under all pertinent criteria as a security risk and would be denied access to the material made available to him in secret briefings," Moss wrote.

"If there is not to be a two-tiered system of justice in this country, these briefings should be stopped."

"I SUBMIT that unlike his three predecessors who were routinely briefed, the honorable Harry Truman, the honorable Dwight D. Eisenhower, and the honorable Lyndon B. Johnson, that former President Nixon left office under conditions analogous to less than an honorable discharge of his responsibilities given him by the American electorate in the 1972 election."

"I question whether the briefing of Richard Nixon, who is no longer an employee of the government, does not in itself constitute a breach of rules, regulations, or laws proscribing the publication of highly classified material."

Moss asked Ford to discontinue the briefings and to finally recognize that "this unprecedented act of resignation was indeed brought about because of the personal conduct of Richard Nixon."

GOP 'task force' bows to farm lobby

By Brooks Jackson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Strong lobbying by farmer cooperatives prompted a Republican anti-trust task force to shelve a confidential staff report urging curbs on co-op power as a means of reducing food prices, sources said Friday.

In place of the staff report, the House group issued a statement praising farmer cooperatives and calling for further study of the problem of food prices.

The confidential staff report, obtained by The Associated Press, urged an amendment to prevent food-processing corporations from gaining anti-trust exemptions by forming farmer-style cooperatives. Half the nation's chicken production now is controlled by such a co-op.

The staff report also recommended a change in anti-trust laws to allow the Justice Department to get court orders to prevent mergers of farmer co-ops into giants such as the three big dairy groups that control 25 per cent of the nation's milk. Presently, farmer co-ops legally can grow to any size if they avoid predatory practices.

Rep. H. John Heinz III, chairman of the House Republican Task Force on Anti-trust and Monopoly Problems, said in an interview that members of the panel discussed the staff report and decided it needed further study. Several days of hearings had been held a few weeks ago.

THE REPORT "does not represent the views of the task force," Heinz said. "We felt strongly there were some people we had not heard from and the conclusions expressed in it were at this point premature."

The panel's public statement urged only that the Federal Trade Commission complete its own study of monopoly problems in the food industry by January, after this November's election. Heinz said the task force probably would not hold additional hearings on its own until after the elections, either.

The panel's public statement said, "One result of our initial hearings is that we have seen that farmers and their cooperatives are essential to the nation's production and distribution of agricultural products." The confidential staff report also had good words for most co-ops, but said some of them "have achieved substantial market power, in some cases approaching monopoly positions."

It said some super-size cooperatives, a reference to the dairy giants, "apparently have engaged in a number of anticompetitive practices aimed at stifling competition."

IT ALSO CRITICIZED some co-op methods as undemocratic, and recommended a number of changes.

None of the critical staff findings were made part of the panel's public statement.

Two sources said that representatives of Pennsylvania dairy co-ops had brought pressure on Heinz, the Pittsburgh pickle heir, and on Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott, who outranks Heinz in Pennsylvania's GOP hierarchy.

A source close to Heinz said the congressman would not press for adoption of the staff's recommendations on co-ops. Heinz acknowledged that he had met with co-op representatives, but denied that the staff report had been discussed.

One administration source said representatives of monopoly cooperatives also had spent several days lobbying task force members to prevent adoption of some of the report's proposals.

The staff report led off with a recommendation to keep corporate processors out of farmer-style co-ops. This might force liquidation of the National Broiler Marketing Association, a co-op of 60 processors who control 50 per cent of the nation's chickens.

THE REPORT SAID that if another 100 processors join the broiler association and get the sort of exemption intended for farmers, the group then would control all the nation's chickens and could easily set prices for all consumers.

Currently, the Justice Department is suing the broiler association, accusing it of using illegal methods to rig supply and prices.

Other recommendations:

- A study of the possibility of using tax laws to discourage too much advertising of brand-name foods. The report said excessive advertising tends to discourage new brands from entering the market.
- An end to co-op blue voicing in establishing federally regulated markets for milk, fruit and vegetables. Presently co-op managers are able to cast all their member's votes in a bloc, even if the majority of members is opposed to the move in question.

Cold wave crop damage in millions

By Dave Goldberg Associated Press

Boone, Iowa, said Friday that American farmers will harvest less than 4.8 billion bushels of corn this year. The Agriculture Department predicted last spring a harvest of 6.1 billion bushels.

GOEPFINGER, who toured frost-bitten areas of Illinois, Wisconsin and Iowa this week, predicted a short-term benefit to consumers. He said much of the damaged corn crop would be used for silage and fed to beef, causing a short-term increase in the beef supply.

Franklin D. Johnson, a specialist hired by four western New York grape-growing counties, reported that leaves on grape vines froze, diminishing the sugar content in the grapes. He said he could not estimate the financial loss to growers.

"We'll get some improvement in the crop with better weather, but we will not get the high-quality crop we expected a few weeks ago," Johnson said.

Walter Goepfinger, chairman of the Board of the National Growers Association in

Tighter crime collars urged

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said Friday that rehabilitation and probation don't work for white collar criminals and that many judges should be giving them prison terms instead of suspended sentences.

"Price fixers should go to prison. The man who evades taxes should go to prison. They are not better than the car thief or the burglar or the robber. They are all members of the same fraternity. And it is about time that all of our federal judges begin realizing that," the attorney general told a conference of industrial leaders.

Saxbe said federal judges are reluctant to send a white collar criminal to prison, because they believe they do not need rehabilitation. Instead, they place them on probation, he said.

"REHABILITATION is a myth and probation is a failure," Saxbe said.

In an interview after the speech, Saxbe denied he was referring to President Ford's pardon of former President Richard M. Nixon. Asked his view of the pardon, Saxbe replied: "I am not going to second-guess President Ford."

During his speech, Saxbe said he had been asked how he could urge tough sentences for white-collar offenders when the Justice Department, under a previous attorney general, agreed to a no-contest plea by former Vice President Spiro Agnew on income tax evasion charges.

"I cannot second-guess my predecessor's decision. The country probably agreed he did the right thing, for it would have been an agonizing ordeal if a vice president under indictment or appealing a conviction would have succeeded to the presidency," Saxbe said.

But, he added: "I am fired of exceptions in the process of justice, fired of persons being exempt from its sanctions."

Saxbe said prisons are the only way to punish white collar criminals: "It's one thing for the president of a company to pay a fine out of the corporate treasury. It's another thing for him to pack up his toothbrush and go off to jail."

SAXBE suggested that Congress stiffen the prison term for antitrust violations from a maximum of one year in prison to a maximum of five years. He also supported legislation to increase the maximum criminal antitrust fine from $50,000 to $500,000.

Saxbe said in the interview that he does not advocate harsh prison practices. He said he wanted "humane, custodial care." He said he also approved of programs such as college courses for prisoners, although he said few prisoners take advantage of these programs.

In a question and answer period after the speech, Saxbe said he opposed a proposal for a national police force. The idea came up as a suggestion to deal with such problems as competitive dogfighting.

"If local police can't handle dogfighting, chicken fighting or hog fighting, then what can they handle?" he asked. "A national police force would be the first step toward a totalitarian government."

The industrial leaders were here for the annual convention of the Associated Industries, Inc., of New York State.

Selection process of cover-up jury secret

By WESLEY G. PIPPERT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Judge John J. Sirica clamped a secrecy lid on the jury selection process for the Watergate cover-up trial Friday as he screened more prospective jurors and gave defendants five additional chances to challenge final choices.

Sirica ordered Court Clerk James F. Davey not to tell reporters how many jurors had been questioned nor how many had been excused. Previously, Davey has briefed reporters periodically on those figures.

And the judge signed a four-page order increasing from 10 to 15 the number of peremptory challenges for the five defendants. They will be able to exercise 10 as a group, and each of the five former Nixon aides will have the opportunity to make one such challenge individually as well.

The judge spent eight hours Friday screening prospective jurors, and before adjourning in late afternoon announced he would hold longer court sessions starting Monday in an effort to speed up the selection process.

Defendants are former

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, reelection committee lawyer Kenneth Parkinson, and Mitchell aide Robert Mardian.

The five former top officials are charged with attempting to cover up the Watergate scandals, and all but one — Mardian — are charged with obstruction of justice.

The process of selecting a jury began when the trial opened Tuesday and Sirica remained optimistic Friday that 12 jurors and six alternates could be selected by early next week.

The prosecution's normal six peremptories was not increased, although when the defense requested an increase Sirica said that to give one side additional challenges without a proportionate increase for the other side "would not be fair."

The defense attorneys had asked for 25 peremptories, and Sirica declared: "To grant the defendants five challenges each, while restricting the government to six challenges, would effectively give one side, the defense, the power to select the jury. That would not be fair."

During the selection, prospective jurors may be excused for definite reasons. But lawyers for the two sides are also given the right in peremptory challenges to strike a certain number of jurors without giving any cause.

Sirica said the defendants may exercise one such peremptory challenge each and 10 jointly. In most cases, the defense is entitled to a total of 10 such challenges.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski may exercise six peremptory challenges, the number usually allowed the prosecution. Sirica said each side would have three peremptory challenges in the selection of alternate jurors.

The selection began Tuesday, and as of Thursday night, five jurors had been tentatively accepted and five had been dismissed for cause out of 44 interviewed.

Sirica announced no decision on former President Richard Nixon's request Thursday that he be excused from testifying at the trial, and it was expected that Nixon's pleas to quash both defense and prosecution subpoenas will remain secret until the trial begins.

Stony Gorge fire chars 300 acres

WILLOWS (UPI) — A fire in Stony Gorge Dam area north of here swept almost 300 acres Friday, the state Division of Forestry reported.

Some 60 men were called to fight the flames, aided by bulldozers, air retardant drop planes and hand tools.

Air fare hike set to offset fuel price

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Citing unprecedented hikes in the cost of aviation fuel, the Civil Aeronautics Board announced tentative plans Friday to grant a temporary 13.36 per cent rate increase to 17 U.S. airlines handling U.S. civilian and military mail on overseas routes.

The CAB estimated increased airline revenue would total about $13 million per year. Some 40 per cent of this amount — more than $5 million — would go to Pan American World Airways, it said.

A CAB spokesman emphasized that the additional amount the U.S. Postal Service would have to pay U.S. carriers was designed solely to offset increased fuel costs and did not constitute a subsidy to U.S. carriers. The new rate would be retroactive to March 8.

The spokesman said a CAB study initiated in March "shows the carriers have experienced unprecedented increases in aviation fuel costs" growing out of the quadrupled price of crude oil.

Under terms of the show cause order filed Friday by the CAB, both the Postal Service and the airlines will have until Oct. 15 to file objections to the new rate proposal. The spokesman said this could block the rate increase from taking effect.

He said the CAB would have until Oct. 21 to answer any objections that were filed.

In addition, he said, the size of the proposed increase might be adjusted either up or down based on the results of public hearings the CAB is now in the process of scheduling.

The spokesman said the board's proposed new rates were not related to the "substantially higher" mail rates established by the Universal Postal Union, an international organization which determines how much foreign governments pay U.S. carriers and how much the U.S. Postal Service pays foreign carriers.

Only a small amount of U.S. mail is shipped at UPU rates, the spokesman said, and that is carried to and from countries not served by U.S. airlines.

But the CAB announcement appeared to endorse a measure under consideration by the Senate Commerce Committee that would bring Postal Service payments to U.S. airlines under the higher UPU rate structure, as the airlines have requested.

"Such legislation could relieve the CAB of the duty of setting cost-based mail rates," the announcement said.

In addition to Pan Am, carriers affected by the increase would be Airlift International, Alaska Airlines, American Airlines, Braniff Airways, Continental Air Lines, Delta Air Lines, Eastern Air Lines, Flying Tiger, Hughes Airwest, Mackey International, National Airlines, Northwest Airlines, Seaboard World Airlines, Trans World Airlines, United Air Lines, and Western Air Lines.

U.S. carriers have sought government subsidies for foreign operations, saying they are operating at a competitive disadvantage to foreign airlines. This question, which would require congressional action, is now being discussed by the Senate Commerce Committee.

Slowdowns in air traffic probed

By ROBERT LINDSEY

NEW YORK — The Federal Aviation Administration has uncovered evidence of sporadic, isolated slowdowns by air traffic controllers around the country that have recently delayed thousands of air travelers.

An agency spokesman said Friday that only a

According to reliable sources, the dissident traffic controllers are protesting an airline crackdown on free flight privileges for the controllers. Airlines assert that the privileges are being abused.

The airline industry has protested the delays to the FAA and contended that handful of the FAA's more than 14,000 controllers—who direct airline pilots from radar control centers on the ground—appear to have been involved.

But, coupled with delays caused by airport construction in several cities and recent radar system failures, the job actions by a few controllers have substantially snarled air traffic at New York, Chicago, Washington, Miami, Los Angeles and several other cities, the agency said.

At New York's LaGuardia Airport alone, more than 80 planes were reportedly delayed up to an hour Thursday—a day when the weather was clear and beautiful.

they are causing the consumption of hundreds of thousands of gallons of extra fuel daily.

"There is not a concerted, widespread action," said Dennis Feldman, an official of the FAA in Washington, "but there have been some delays caused by a sporadic slowdown of some controllers."

He said an FAA investigation had determined that some controllers were slowing the pace of arrivals and takeoffs at airports by spacing jets farther apart in the area than necessary; by ordering pilots to make detours that add unnecessarily to travel time and by issuing other orders causing delays.

Doctors seeking ban on 'safe' fireworks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Citing crippling injuries to thousands of children, the American Academy of Pediatrics testified Friday in support of a total ban on fireworks.

"It would appear that there is no such thing as 'safe and sane' fireworks," Dr. Allan B. Coleman of the academy told a federal hearing.

"We, as pediatricians, concerned with the health and safety of children, strongly believe that only by banning all fireworks devices from private use can children be properly protected from devastating injuries," he said. "It is time that we declare 'enough' to the preventable tragedies which have already been tolerated for too long."

Hearings in Washington, Kansas City and Honolulu have been called to consider objections from Oriental and Oklahoma fireworks manufacturers to U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission regulations banning firecrackers of all sizes.

Arab envoys pledge not to cut oil output

WASHINGTON (AP) — Saudi Arabia and Iran Friday said through high-ranking spokesmen they would not cut back oil production to prop up prices if the industrial nations reduce their oil demand.

Saudi Arabian oil minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani admitted that large demand reductions would bring down the price of oil.

"I can tell you right now, we won't cut down our production," Yamani pledged, drawing applause from the audience of a panel discussion here.

In the audience was Ardeshir Zahedi, ambassador of Iran, who added that his nation also would not cut oil production.

"Great. Thank you very much," exclaimed John C. Sawhill, U.S. federal energy administrator, also on the panel convened by the American Enterprise Institute.

Yamani proposed that seven or eight nations—oil-producers, oil-importers, and developing countries—meet to set an agenda of oil-related issues for wider discussion.

Sawhill later told reporters the U.S. is "receptive to meeting with them," but said it was up to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, not himself.

Meanwhile, the head of the International Monetary Fund said world money markets could not continue indefinitely their present role in recirculating the billions of dollars now flowing from industrial nations to the oil nations.

IMF Managing Director H. Johannes Witteveen issued that warning at the close of the annual meeting of IMF and the World Bank, where an interim committee was formed to study ways of channeling oil money back to oil-importing nations in the form of loans. Its report is due in mid-January.

Jack F. Bennett, under-secretary of the U.S. Treasury, predicted that the IMF study will show little need for expanded international financing effort if conditions remain the same in months ahead. And he emphasized the U.S. does not contemplate contributing to such a scheme.

The IMF has operated a fund totaling $3.4 billion to lend money at favorable interest rates to nations such as Italy with severe balance of payment problems. Most of the money in the fund was contributed by oil-producing nations.

But Witteveen told delegates he hopes developed nations also will pitch in if this lending program is expanded in 1978—and he hopes it will be.

Bennett, however, replied with a firm "no" when asked if the U.S. would contribute.

"We are not contemplating making any direct purchase of IMF securities or World Bank securities," Bennett added.

The heavy flow of oil dollars—estimated at some $100 billion per year—also concerned Sawhill, Yamani and other members on their panel.

Sawhill asked Yamani whether the price would fall if the U.S. cut its demand by 1.5 million barrels a day while Europe and Japan trimmed down an equal amount.

"I think if you do this it will go down, unless some of the major producers come down and cut drastically their production," Yamani replied.

"Now the major producers of the world who can do this are, number one, Saudi Arabia, and I can tell you right now we won't cut down our production."

Yamani added he did not think Iran would cut production either, and Zahedi quickly confirmed this from his front-row seat.

Said Sawhill, smiling, "You have just given a ringing endorsement for a conservation program in the consuming nations. I certainly do appreciate that."

$225,000 paid for 1804 silver dollar

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — A Minneapolis coin dealer has announced his firm paid a record $225,000 for the 1804 U.S. silver dollar, one of 15 known authentic dollars bearing that date.

The Guinness Book of Records lists $100,000 as the previous high paid for a single coin.

Kent Froese, president of Continental Coin Galleries, said Friday his firm will ask more than $275,000 for the Idler dollar. Continental purchased the coin from Bowers and Ruddy Galleries, Los Angeles.

The coin was believed to have been minted in the 1830s, along with the 14 other known authentic silver dollars with the 1804 date, for presentation to foreign dignitaries. The reason the coins were dated 1804 is unclear, but no silver dollars were minted for general circulation bearing that date.

All 15 coins are now back in the U.S. Five of them are in museums and nine are owned by private collectors.

The Idler specimen was named for its first known owner, William Idler.

2 large banks cut prime rate to 11 3/4

NEW YORK (AP) — The nation's two largest commercial banks and some smaller banks lowered their prime lending rates Friday by 1/4 of a percentage point to 11 3/4 per cent, effective Monday.

The move was part of a pattern of lower rates in the money market where banks buy the funds they loan to businesses.

THE LATEST reduction in the prime rate from its record 12 per cent, pioneered last week by Chase Manhattan bank and Morgan Guaranty Bank of New York, was adopted Friday by the bank of America of San Francisco, the nation's biggest bank, and the First National City Bank of New York, the second largest.

Among the smaller banks lowering their prime included the Mercantile Trust Co. of St. Louis, the National City Bank of Cleveland and the First National Bank of Cincinnati, United California Bank and North Carolina National Bank.

Although the prime rate is not directly tied to personal and small business loan rates, a movement in the prime often indicates the direction of other loan rates.

The prime lending fee, the lowest rate banks only offer their best and biggest customers, is determined by the banks' own cost of short-term money, and these rates have fallen sharply in recent weeks.

THREE-MONTH Treasury bills, one of banks' largest and most frequent sources of short-term money, cost banks 8.04 per cent in May, falling to 7.98 per cent in July when the demand for credit eased.

Ecologists' ire seen over oil lease plan

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Interior Undersecretary John C. Whitaker has ordered plans for leasing 10 million acres "in all the promising areas of the Atlantic" to oil companies next year, but Interior Department officials insisted the order was merely a part of advance planning.

A department memorandum signed by Deputy Undersecretary Jared G. Carter said Whitaker had ordered "not just 10 million acres offered" to oil companies for exploration but "a firm leasing schedule" for 1978.

During the energy crisis early this year stemming from the Arab oil embargo, then-President Richard M. Nixon had ordered Interior to step up its rate of leasing offshore oil lands from about 1 million acres a year to 10 million by 1978.

Whitaker's move appeared certain to arouse the ire of environmentalists who claim oil drilling will start before states have a chance to estimate its effect on the fish and flora on the outer continental shelf.

Whitaker and other department officials said the order to the Bureau of Land Management and the Geological Survey was merely a part of advance planning and not a decision to sell the leases.

"We would be irresponsible if we did not plan far enough ahead to determine what areas should be studied for their environmental impact," Whitaker said.

Some oil industry sources said the producers did not have sufficient money available at this time to buy the leases and undertake a massive exploration operation.

"If industry does not offer a fair price, we won't sell it," Whitaker said.

The spokesman said any actual sale of leases would be subject to the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 and thus subject to review both by the Council on Environmental Quality and the public.

The memo asked for a "firm leasing schedule" for 1978 off both Alaska and the Atlantic Coast, including "some leases in all of the promising areas of the Atlantic."

Such areas would include offshore lands extending from the Georges Bank Basin off New England to the Blake Plateau Basin off Florida.

Plans for nation's first shale oil plant shelved

By ANTHONY RIPLEY, New York Times Service

WASHINGTON—Oil shale development, one of the major elements in the nation's effort to reduce reliance on imported oil, received a setback Friday with the suspension of plans for construction of the nation's first commercial shale oil plant.

Colony Development Operations announced that it was suspending plans to start construction next spring on private land in northwest Colorado. Colony is made up of the Atlantic-Richfield Oil Co., the Oil Shale Corp., Shell Oil Co. and Ashland Oil Inc.

Colony's decision to shelve the project was clearly a blow to shale prospects, already under question by some critics on economic and environmental grounds.

THERE have been suggestions from some sectors of the oil industry, particularly those with interests in shale lands, that the government subsidize the development. Some members of Congress, however, have resisted, saying that such a subsidy could become a costly, long-term federal outlay that might eventually require federal price supports for oil.

Colony in its announcement blamed "current double-digit inflation, tight money and absence of a national energy policy which establishes clearly the role of oil from shale in the national energy picture."

The same statement quoted the general manager, Hollis M. Dole, as saying that Colony would continue with "appropriate efforts to maintain its readiness to construct a commercial shale oil plant when the economy stabilizes and national energy policy uncertainty clears."

The postponement of the 50,000 barrel-per-day plant was also tied to construction costs which jumped from an estimate of $450 million to "in excess of $800 million by 1977."

DUKE R. LIGON, assistant administrator for resources development at the Federal Energy Administration, said Colony representatives had told him and the Bureau of Land Management in the Department of Interior, of its decision Friday.

"We've worked with them on this project and are very, very interested and very disappointed in the events today. We hope we can do something to get it back on track," Ligon said.

Such efforts, he said, should be made "not at all costs, but in the national interest, if it can be worked out in an environmental way, so that we do not have to continue depending on high-cost foreign oil."

Jackson urges lid on oil imports to reduce prices

MANCHESTER, N.H. (AP) — Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., Friday night proposed that a lid be placed on oil imports into the United States to limit the transfer of its wealth to oil-producing nations.

"This will tell them loud and clear that imports will not be allowed to rise until prices come down," Jackson said at a Democratic fund-raising dinner here.

"And if prices do not come down, any future growth in energy demand would have to come through increased domestic production or energy conservation," he said.

Jackson, considered a top contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, is in New Hampshire this weekend to test the presidential waters in the state where the earliest presidential primary is held.

He predicted that by the early 1980s members of the Oil Producing Exporting Countries (OPEC) will have taken in $1.2 trillion because of the current rate structure for the cost of oil.

"The continuing failure of the Ford-Nixon administrations to develop and pursue a national energy policy is severely threatening the economies of Europe, Japan and the United States and threatens starvation for millions in the underdeveloped world," Jackson said.

He said the oil-producing nations should act on "humanitarian grounds" to aid the world's poor and starving people just as the U.S. did following World War II.

"Because of these fixed, rigged cartel prices, India will be short of fertilizer and that alone could bring starvation to more than 10 million people this year," Jackson said.

Jackson said appeals to the oil-producing nations to reduce their prices will carry little weight as long as U.S. producers are allowed to charge the same prices—$10 to $11 per barrel of oil.

"The Congress passed and sent to the President earlier this year my bill to cut the price of unregulated domestic oil to $7 a barrel," he said.

"The Nixon veto of that bill cost the consumer $5 billion and provided another big surge to inflation, and it signaled the (oil) cartel that America had a weak and vacillating leadership," he said.

U.S. panel chief quits in excess profits hassle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — William S. Whitehead resigned as chairman of the Renegotiation Board Friday under criticism that the panel was not doing its duty to recover excess profits on defense contracts.

The White House announced President Ford had accepted the resignation "with regret."

Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., and several other congressmen had charged that Whitehead's leadership was allowing defense contractors to keep millions of dollars in excess profits that should have been recovered for the taxpayers.

Jackson said appeals to the oil-producing nations to reduce their prices will carry little weight as long as U.S. producers are allowed to charge the same prices—$10 to $11 per barrel of oil.

Lots of Linda in 'Me and Bessie'

By ROBERT C. WYLLDER

"I ain't Bessie Smith. But there's a lot of Bessie in me." So proclaims Linda Hopkins to open the show, and all of that Bessie comes exploding out in "Me and Bessie," now playing for a limited run at the Mark Taper Forum.

Bessie Smith was big in the golden twenties, regarded by many as the greatest blues singer alive. She's been dead now for a long time, though (1937), and the recordings left behind hardly do justice to a reputation like that.

So thank goodness for Linda Hopkins. She is not, as she insists, Bessie Smith, but she'll do. As she stands there on the stage telling Bessie's story, she sings Bessie's songs, and Bessie couldn't possibly have done them any better. "Tain't Nobody's Business If I Do," "You've Been A Good Old Wagon," "Empty Bed Blues," "A Good Man Is Hard to Find" and a lot more of the old blues tunes come blasting forth from Linda as more than an echo of the past. It's almost Bessie reincarnated. "There's a lot of Bessie in me" indeed.

And there's certainly a lot of Linda in "Me and Bessie." She and Will Holt wrote the continuity, and she sings all the songs. In fact, the show is really a one-woman performance, a sort of blues concert with a thin thread of biographical narrative to hold it together. Miss Hopkins is center stage throughout the two acts, booming out the blues, dancing the shimmy, and providing most of the narrative. She is a human dynamo.

For blues singing requires first of all energy. The phrasing of blues style demands power more than finesse. It is pretty elemental stuff, close to the beat of life, and subtlety won't do. Linda has the power, all right. And the stamina. She electrifies her hearers for two full hours, charging them with her own energy. At the end of the performance I saw, she was on her feet at the end — and so was everybody else in the house. That's real theatrical excitement.

She didn't do it entirely alone, of course. Any singer needs a good accompaniment, and Miss Hopkins has it in Howlett Smith, Monte Budwig, Lowell E. McPowell, and Joe Roccasino. In addition, Lester Wilson and Gerri Dean help out now and then on the dances and a chorus or two. That's the whole cast.

Mostly it's just Linda/Bessie out there, belting out the blues. But that's enough.

Life-styles hit hard by spiral

NEW YORK (UPI) — Inflation has imposed changes on the life-styles of 67 out of every 100 American families, according to a new monthly poll of consumer sentiment.

The CitiCorp poll is based on a nationwide sample of more than 1,400 households polled during the second and third weeks in September. CitiCorp's major subsidiary, First National City Bank, also sponsored the poll.

Only 25 per cent out of 100 families studied said they had not changed their way of living, the survey found. Twenty-five per cent reported they had sacrificed many luxuries, while 42 per cent said they had given up some non-essentials.

The families questioned expressed overwhelming pessimism over the state of the economy compared with a year ago, the poll revealed. A full 84 per cent of every 100 families said the economy was worse, 13 per cent felt it was the same, and only two households in 100 believed it had improved.

Inflation also has caused many American households to start a family budget, the consumer survey found. Out of every 100 families questioned, 52 now are relying on a budget. In 54 per cent of these households, the wife handles the budget, in 26 per cent the husband juggles the bills, and in 18 per cent, husband and wife attack the problem together.

With inflation biting heavily into family income, 80 out of every 100 families with budgets are experiencing problems living within them, the private poll said.

The poll said 41 out of 100 families questioned anticipate borrowing more money in the next 12 months than they did last year, while 30 said they would borrow the same amount.

WHEAT SALE

White House meeting today. An Agriculture Department official said the two large grain firms involved in the contracts to sell the grain and corn to the Soviets both had reported the pacts, as required, which prompted Friday night's government action.

The swift government action to block the Soviet sale at a time when U.S. food supplies are low and the harvest is producing less than anticipated raises serious questions whether the ban on the Soviet sale will become permanent. (A high government official said Friday night that the halt was not an embargo on U.S. grain exports but related specifically to the 125 million bushel Soviet transaction.)

In the meantime, the Agriculture Department did announce Friday it approved a sale of $34.8 million worth of wheat, wheat flour and rice to Bangladesh under the food for peace program.

The sale of the commodities will be made through private traders, while the Agriculture Department will pay for the grains and collect the money from Bangladesh over a 40-year period.

Sen. Hubert Humphrey, D-Minn., commented after the Treasury Department's announcement: "The Agriculture Department owes the American people an explanation."

"We are already facing a shortage of grain because of bad weather," Humphrey said. "If this delivery is made there will be even a further reduction in the number of hogs, poultry and dairy cows, and obviously higher consumer prices for food."

Humphrey, a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said he will ask the chairman, Sen. Herman Talmadge, D-Ga., to call hearings to question "all persons involved in or having responsibility for these transactions."

Humphrey blasted both the grain companies and Butz for what he called an "unconscionable" attempt.

He called on the Commodity Exchange Authority and the Agriculture Department to launch an investigation into the Soviet attempt to purchase the large amount of grain.

"Secretary Butz assured me on Wednesday that he was monitoring the export markets on a daily basis," Humphrey said. "It is clear that this system did not work. We need legislation to prevent this from happening again."

Ford delighted by kids' energy letter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A delighted President Ford Friday proudly showed off a two-foot stack of energy-saving suggestions from the public, including a pledge from Michigan third-graders to cut down the family auto mileage by riding bikes whenever possible.

Last weekend, Ford closed his economic summit by asking Americans to send him lists of their 10 favorite energy-saving and inflation-fighting ideas. The result, some 18,025 letters and postcards, filled a large mail basket and overflowed onto the Cabinet table where Ford was meeting with his top-level Economic Policy Board.

HOLDING a large 2 by 3-foot letter at arms length, the President read the 10 "energy savers" sent by "Mrs. Lykes third Grade Sodd Elementary School, Monroe, Michigan." Among the ideas:

"— We will ride our bikes to our friends instead of having Dad take us in the car."

"— We will always close the door in cold weather."

"— We will get things out of the refrigerator quickly."

Ford, reporters and cameramen all chuckled at a final suggestion:

"— We will eat dinner when Mom cooks it so that she will not have to reheat it."

THE President also read from a 10-point list sent by the Warren Nissley Jr. family, Ridgewood, N.J. Their points included taking baths in half the normal amount of water and shutting the door quickly after the cat goes outside.

And the Nissleys added a P.S.: "If we replace our TV, it will be with Solid State," which uses less energy than tube sets.

Ford said he found many of the ideas "extremely helpful" and said some would be worked into his own anti-inflation speech to the nation next Tuesday.

Economic adviser Paul McCracken suggested compiling the ideas into an anthology and Ford nodded his agreement.

the pancreas to be normal. Cancer sometimes can cause thrombophlebitis, and it is believed doctors were searching for pancreatic cancer.

Dr. John R. Anderson, a diagnostic radiologist, said he conducted radiological studies of the colon, the gallbladder and the upper digestive tract and found all to be "completely normal."

Dr. Eldon Hickman, a vascular surgeon, said he and his surgical colleague, Dr. Seibert Pearson, confirmed the diagnosis of deep recurrent thrombophlebitis and pulmonary embolism (lung clot). He told of a complication that sometimes comes in the wake of the leg disorder—post-phlebotic syndrome. This condition, he said, is characterized by swollen leg, leg disability and sometimes ulceration.

Dr. Dennis McQuown, director of the department of diagnostic ultrasound, described ultrasonic studies of the left thigh, the left calf and of the abdomen.

Lungren, pressed with questions about the Watergate trial, said that he has not been contacted by U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica. Asked if he would object to court-appointed physicians examining Nixon, Lungren said he saw no need for it.

Motioning toward his consultants, Lungren termed them "totally adequate."

Lungren said that too much distress placed on his patient could possibly cause stress ulcer, perhaps resulting in massive gastrointestinal hemorrhage.

Nixon, who earlier refused to enter a hospital, is going to change his ways, Lungren revealed.

"He tells me that he'll follow my instructions to the letter," Lungren said.

Nixon departed the hospital the same way he entered—by the service entrance to the rear of the medical center, on Columbia Street.

He was rolled to a waiting limousine in a wheelchair, with his left leg elevated.

He was accompanied by his wife, Pat, and their oldest daughter, Tricia.

Nixon stepped out of the wheelchair, spoke briefly to Lungren and then climbed into the limousine.

The limousine, a station wagon and a sedan drove off without fanfare.

GOP 'third party' in poll; Ford still leads

ATLANTA (UPI) — Public opinion analyst George Gallup said Friday the Republicans are now "a third party" in American politics, but that Democrats have not picked up many GOP defectors.

But he added that current figures show President Ford "winning handily" if the presidential election were held today — even though his decision to pardon former President Nixon was "a real shocker" that cost him support.

GALLUP said the economy can hurt Ford's 1976 election prospects more than any post-Watergate suspicion.

"We find that the percentage of people who classify themselves Republican is at an all-time low," said Gallup in an interview. "The Democrats are stronger, numerically, the independents are second, and the Republicans come along as a third party."

Gallup noted a surge of independence among voters, with about one third of the electorate claiming no affiliation with either major party. On college campuses, he said, nearly half the student voters call themselves independents.

He said his opinion polls showed that only 24 per cent of adult Americans consider themselves Republicans, but that a vast majority consider themselves conservative.

Gallup said Democrats account for about 40 per cent of the voting public, a bit fewer than there were when President Roosevelt was heading for a third term in 1940.

"President Ford's pardon of President Nixon was a real shocker to the American people," said Gallup. "While the pardon may have broken up the presidential honeymoon a bit early, a new president — any new president — is vulnerable to the vagaries of the economy."

GALLUP said 70 per cent of the people believe the short-term economy will get worse, and nearly half expect a depression. He said, however, 70 per cent of the people are confident things will eventually get better, and an overwhelming majority of Americans are satisfied with their jobs, homes, cars and life styles — even while worrying about the economy.

"It would be wrong to assume that Americans are consumed with gloom," said Gallup. "The mood of the public today should be described as apprehensive, but certainly far from despondent."

RTD STRIKE

settlement, Moore replied, "I think they would consider it or they might be willing to work out a one-year contract (instead of two)."

Among others attending the meeting were RTD President Thomas Neuson, RTD General Manager Jack Gilstrap, RTD Assistant General Manager Jack Stubbs, Jerome C. Long, president and business representative of the Amalgamated Transit Union (representing mechanics) and Harold Sweeney, treasurer of that union.

Hahn said he decided to call the meeting after learning that Reagan was in town. On several occasions during the six hours the principals would all meet together, but at other times the union representatives would split off and hold discussions in a separate room.

At various times Hahn had in the meeting with him County Personnel Director Gordon Nesvig and his assistant Rob Leonetti, who were involved in the recent county negotiations as well as County Auditor-Controller Mark Bloodgood. Hahn said Bloodgood helped to calculate what percentage increases might mean in terms of dollars.

Overstress on safety of products, Butz says

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz said Friday it may be necessary to put some products on the market before they've been proven "absolutely safe."

Butz said because of pressing food needs, "perhaps we cannot afford the luxury of being absolutely safe by taking five years to prove the absolute safety of a new product before it is put into use."

He said regulations have stopped the use of some insecticides and fertilizers which aid crop production but are thought to be dangerous or unhealthy.

"We could go back to organic farming as the environmentalists would have us do, but first we need someone to decide which 50 million Americans are going to be allowed to die of starvation," he told the Valley Nitrogen Producers conference in San Diego.

"In recent years, in response to environmental concerns, we have placed ourselves in a whole new series of constraints, some of which are justified and some of which may have gone too far," he said.

Despite the limitations on use of chemicals, he said, 10 per cent of crops and livestock are lost through pests and diseases.

"People who say we are poisoning the food should be stopped in their tracks," Butz said.

FORD PLEA

ing years to a total of $3.4 billion.

In the defense field, Ford specifically requested deferral of $498 million for construction and conversion of naval vessels and $156.8 million for military construction.

Another major deferral of $120 million was sought for funds authorized to the Agriculture Department for forest roads and trails.

Ford also proposed deferral of $864 million in the Housing and Urban Development Department's budget authority for home ownership assistance, grants for water and sewer facilities, and public facility loans.

He asked for deferral of $312 million from the Interior Department budget for road construction and $260 million from the Transportation Department's budget for airport facilities and equipment.

The biggest amount among the proposed rescissions was in the Agriculture Department budget — $85 million from the Agriculture Conservation Program and $63 million from the budget for forest roads and trails.

The other amounts Ford asked Congress to rescind were $14.5 million from the housing department's budget for college housing and $18.8 million from the Interior Department budget for development of public lands and road construction.

Earlier, Press Secretary Ron Nessen said Ford will ask Congress and the nation next Tuesday "to bite the bullet" with a number of mandatory anti-inflation measures, but none of them will include a retail gasoline tax increase or rationing, a spokesman said Friday.

possibility that Ford, when he addresses a joint session of Congress at 4 p.m. EDT Tuesday, will seek an increase in other taxes and propose measures to help alleviate problems with credit and interest rates.

Nessen, refusing to be more specific about the long-awaited Ford economic package, said only that it would contain some steps requiring congressional legislation and others to be taken with executive orders. He added that some features would be mandatory.

The White House spokesman outlined the President's position after Ford reviewed his basic ideas with nine Republican congressional leaders at a breakfast meeting.

Two of those key aides, Treasury Secretary William Simon and Budget Director Roy Ash, briefed the congressmen. Nessen said Simon told them the program had an overall goal of "full employment with price stability," but he declined to give any target figures.

Simon also was said to have promised that Ford's program "in broadest terms will require and encourage Americans to save more, reduce waste and produce more" across the board.

Nessen said Ford was disturbed by reports of confusion and disorganization among his chief advisers.

"We do have some hard decisions to make, but hard decisions are not equal to chaos," Nessen said, quoting Ford. He added that the reports of confusion "are indicative of the hard choices we and the American people have to face as we bite the bullet on curbing inflation."

LBSU profs tackle educational reform

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

Do the fragments of elementary zoology, American colonial history and Greek philosophy that students learn at Long Beach State University add up to a liberal education—or anything at all?

That question—and several variations of it—will come under increasing scrutiny at the university this year as President Stephen Horn and a key faculty committee look into making long-term reorganizations of the college's class offerings.

Under examination are the general education requirements that each student must complete before he can walk away with a diploma from LBSU or any state university.

Horn and many faculty members believe that the courses—about one-third of the classes that students take—often leave students with unrelated fragments of knowledge that will neither enrich their lives nor aid their careers.

Horn, in an interview, said students often select a random smorgasbord of classes—based on whatever is offered at the time they're on campus—simply to fulfill their general education requirements.

"We have expected the students to put together all these fragments of knowledge themselves rather than the university devoting its resources to pulling together the knowledge beforehand," he said.

"We need to encourage the intelligent choice of packages of inter-related courses, rather than a near-random selection from hundreds of courses."

That will require better advising for new students, special courses designed to pull together knowledge at the beginning and end of students' careers and more thoughtful organization of the classes presented, Horn said.

Towards that end, Horn last month urged the general faculty and the faculty Planning and Educational Policies Council to take a close look at the general education curriculum and come up with specific suggestions for reform.

Dr. John Walzer, a history professor who heads the council's general education committee, said he welcomed the charge.

"We want to take advantage of the present momentum towards revising the general education requirements and get some action started quickly," Walzer said.

He said that the council—headed by English Prof. David Samuelson—already had put in many hours looking into the requirements.

A key goal is to reform the requirements without allowing the college to move away from the liberal arts and "be subverted back into a professional training school," Walzer said.

Horn and Walzer agreed that some changes could come soon—such as redefining general education and getting some new advisement materials into students' hands—but that many reforms could take two years or longer.

Included in the changes should be a re-emphasis on basic skills such as writing and speaking, Horn said.

"We won't be doing students any favors by failing to make sure they can communicate effectively before they leave the college," he said.

He said that students should be helped early to put together a course of study that would include inter-related courses and more classes that cross traditional boundaries in subject matter.

General education itself should be broadened to include vital subjects such as the legal process and an understanding of computers, he said.

In addition, more science and engineering courses could be included in general education, which has traditionally emphasized the liberal arts.

Horn said that the liberal arts shouldn't be downplayed in the present concern with job-oriented college training, however.

"We owe society more than giving students in-service training for their first jobs," he said. "We want our students to be able to survive in a rapidly-changing job market that may lead to careers they've never dreamed of."

That requires classes that will give students broad skills and train them in critical thinking and communication, he said.

Horn said that he saw his role in revising general education as one of "stimulating discussion and raising questions," and that it was up to the faculty to develop specific goals and methods.

REP. BARRY GOLDWATER JR. EXAMINES STRATOFREIGHTER AS PILOT RUSSELL P. O'QUINN LOOKS ON

Foundation For Airborne Relief Attempt to Fly Medical Supplies to Honduras was Scrubbed by FAA

Goldwater considering probe

Bureaucrats ripped on mercy flight

By HERB SHANNON
Aerospace Editor

"Intransigence and insensitivity" of U.S. State Department officials aborted a Long Beach volunteer medical mercy mission to hurricane victims in Honduras, Rep. Barry Goldwater Jr. said Friday.

Standing next to the giant C97 Stratofreighter transport which has been grounded by government interference at Long Beach Airport for a full week with a 30,000-pound of cargo of medical supplies, the Los Angeles congressman said the federal functionaries flatly refused to recognize a state of emergency in spite of urgent appeals by Honduras health officials.

Goldwater said his week-long efforts to get clearance for the Foundation for Airborne Relief flight and an eight-day mission to airdrop paramedics to Honduras communities isolated by floodwaters were rebuffed by "a handful of men" in the State Department's Agency for International Development (AID).

Goldwater named David Lazar, chief of Latin American affairs for AID, as the official responsible for the decision to stop the mercy mission. The C97 was flagged down after it was fully loaded and ready for takeoff with typhoid and cholera vaccines and a team of 40 volunteers, including nine physicians and 22 medically-trained paratroopers.

Other State Department officials who adamantly opposed the flight, Goldwater declared, were Russell McClure, disaster relief coordinator, and Herman Kleime, deputy U.S. coordinator for the Alliance for Progress.

Goldwater said he encountered plenty of "very stiff and cold opposition" from the State Department officials—but no valid explanation for their refusal to approve the independent and publicly funded flying hospital project.

"They were very adamant," he said. "The fact is that this intransigent and insensitive sheltered bureaucracy has the power to stop this kind of volunteer effort."

Goldwater said he was not aware of any "sinister" reason for the opposition, but that he was considering a further investigation into the matter.

He said the AID officials repeatedly denied the existence of an emergency requiring the FAR mission in the face of evidence to the contrary.

"I told them I had spoken directly to the Honduras minister of health, who told me food crops were wiped out, poisonous snakes were infesting the countryside and they needed the most help in isolated areas."

Their only reply, Goldwater said, was "The Honduras government can't tell us what to do."

Goldwater said he left Washington Friday "with a bad taste in my mouth. I'd like to see a more cooperative attitude by the State Department. In my estimation, this was a great opportunity wasted."

A pilot himself, Goldwater pointed out that the FAR C97 aircraft has a unique capability of not only carrying a heavy cargo of emergency supplies, but also dropping paratroopers to deliver medications to otherwise inaccessible areas.

"I am extremely puzzled why the State Department bureaucrats failed to act," he said.

Russell P. O'Quinn, president and chief pilot of the nonprofit foundation that sponsored the project, explained that the C97 had been prevented from taking off on a variety of technical rulings by the Federal Aviation Administration.

"As a former military aircraft, it is not certified for civilian use on flights outside the U.S.," O'Quinn said. "But the ruling can be waived in certain cases, as it was for this aircraft in the Biafra airlift several years ago."

"We have been working for the last year to get certification for the C97. A surplus military aircraft like this is the only way a small, nonprofit organization can achieve the means to launch a mission like this."

O'Quinn said FAR has arranged to fly about two-thirds of the medical supplies contributed to the flying hospital to Honduras today aboard an alternate aircraft supplied by McCulloch Airlines, based at Long Beach Airport.

The McCulloch plane, a Lockheed Electra turboprop, will carry 20,000 pounds of medical supplies requested most urgently by the Honduras government, but no parachute teams, he said.

The civilian airliner does not have the capacity for the full C97 load, nor the capability of dropping the paratroopers safely, he explained.

Old, new requests swamp coast panel

By KRIS SHERMAN
Staff Writer

Applications for construction in Belmont Shore and Huntington Beach dominate Monday's regional coastal commission agenda, but it is doubtful commissioners will even begin to complete the massive schedule of public hearings.

Commissioners are scheduled to convene at 9 a.m. in the Long Beach Harbor Department's board room, 925 Harbor Plaza Drive. Their agenda contains 93 public hearing items and a 58-item consent calendar.

EXECUTIVE Director Mel Carpenter said the commission has been deluged with requests for permits to build within the coastal zone, and even at its current meeting pace—seven to eight hours weekly—cannot keep up with the flow of new applications.

The commission has jurisdiction over all construction within 1,000 yards of the coastline in Los Angeles and Orange counties.

Since commissioners often cannot get through an entire agenda on the scheduled day, the result is a list of "holdover" items that take precedence over the next week's agenda.

Monday's hearing schedule is a good example. First item on the commissioners' meeting schedule are 16 public hearings originally slated to be held last Monday.

COMMISSIONERS must wade through those before they can begin the agenda prepared for Monday. Though no one can say for sure what time commissioners will take up that agenda, prior meeting experience indicates it probably will be after the lunch break—maybe later.

O'Quinn said FAR has arranged to fly about two-thirds of the medical supplies contributed to the flying hospital to Honduras today aboard an alternate aircraft supplied by McCulloch Airlines, based at Long Beach Airport.

The McCulloch plane, a Lockheed Electra turboprop, will carry 20,000 pounds of medical supplies requested most urgently by the Honduras government, but no parachute teams, he said.

The civilian airliner does not have the capacity for the full C97 load, nor the capability of dropping the paratroopers safely, he explained.

Commission Chairman Dr. Donald Bright has, in recent weeks, given applicants some idea of whether their projects will be heard on the day they're scheduled. But he generally does not make that determination until late in the day, which means anyone wishing to speak on a project—whether his remarks are pro or con—must appear at 9 a.m., not knowing when the application might be heard, and wait until Bright indicates a stopping point on the agenda, thereby dismissing those persons whose cases fall past that point.

Scheduled for public hearing at the beginning of Monday's agenda are two Belmont Shore construction projects held over from last Monday's meeting.

THE PROJECTS, proposed by Tor-West Builders, Inc., include the construction of four single-family dwellings at Fourth Street, Havana Avenue and Terraine Avenue; and the construction of 10 single-family dwellings at Havana Avenue and Terraine Avenue.

Also slated near the beginning of the meeting, is a public hearing on an application by the Port of Long Beach, which proposes to reconstruct, stripe and illuminate approximately 3,000 linear feet of roadway and construct a 3,000-foot chain link fence at Pier J and Harbor Scenic Drive.

Two Belmont Shore projects, which received public hearings two weeks ago, have been scheduled for "voting only." Both are listed near the beginning of Monday's original agenda, which will be taken up after the "holdover" agenda is completed.

BOTH PROJECTS—the proposed construction of a 4-story, 18-unit condominium at 5950 Naples Plaza, by Edwin Brattain; and the construction of a single-family dwelling at 60 Bennett Ave., by Ann Leifhelm—met with sharp criticism from nearby residents during public hearing.

The host of Huntington Beach projects scheduled for public hearing—37 within the Towlotts area and 11 within the Sunset Heights Assessment District—have been the object of commission confusion for several months.

At one time, commissioners denied "without prejudice" projects in those areas because the city was in the process of studying its planning policies.

HOWEVER, the city later said it was principally concerned with planning in the downtown and pier area, so commissioners again began to consider development in the Towlotts and Sunset Heights areas.

When the projects began appearing en masse on the consent calendar, commissioners said they wanted to take a closer look at the area.

The result has been a glut of applications for the construction of multimunit housing in the area. Most of the projects proposed are duplexes, triplexes, fourplexes and small apartment buildings.

Though the applications are listed one-by-one on the agenda, it is possible that where there are several projects by one developer in the same area, the cases could be heard together, thus speeding up the hearing process.

Commissioners have used that procedure before, though they take a separate vote on each application.

Transit system lobby group formed by cities

By LINDA ZINK
Staff Writer

The desire to have greater lobbying power in state and federal legislation affecting mass transit in Los Angeles County has led to the organization of the Western Public Transportation Association by cities which operate their own transit systems.

In an organizational meeting Friday at the Holiday Inn in Torrance, newly elected president William Farrell, general manager of the Long Beach Transportation Co., said the association was formed "because we felt that it would be easier if we were all working together for the same purpose."

He emphasized that the group "is not out to replace the California Association of Publicly Owned Transit Systems (CAPOTS)," but to complement it.

The association's first order of business as outlined by secretary-treasurer John Jontig, director of a newly formed transit system in Norwalk, will be to impress upon voters the importance of voting yes on County Proposition A on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The proposition, Jontig explained, calls for a one-cent county sales tax to fund mass transit development. Of the one-cent tax, 1/2-cent will go toward the construction of fixed rail transportation. The remainder will go to continue the 25-cent reduced bus fare program and to wards maintenance and operation of existing transit services.

"This bill affects all of Los Angeles County, not just the City of Los Angeles, as some have inferred," Jontig said. He added that passage of the bill is essential if Los Angeles County hopes to be eligible for the maximum amount of federal funding that may be appropriated through a bill approved this week by the House and Senate Joint Committee on Public Works and Transportation.

The association, formed at the suggestion of Farrell during a "luncheon meeting of municipal transit operators last month," is composed of Southland cities which operate independent transit systems and includes Long Beach, Santa Monica, Torrance, Culver City, the City of Commerce, Montebello, Norwalk and Gardena.

Cablevision rate hike hearing slated Tuesday

A public hearing on the request of Long Beach Cablevision for a rate increase and a fee for rental of converters will be conducted by the city's Bureau of Franchises at 1:30 p.m. Tuesday in the City Hall council chamber.

The company is asking that the present residential rate of $6 be increased to $6.50 a month, and that the rent for a converter be set at $2 a month, with a $7.95 installation fee.

Louis Possner, chief engineer of the bureau, is recommending approval of the request.

Possner pointed out that the need for cable television service exists in "only a relatively small area" of Long Beach and that, with improved sensitivity and quality of TV receivers, this need will diminish.

Most Long Beach residents have good "over-the-air" signal strengths in their TV sets and there is little need for cable television to improve the reception, he said.

Because reception is good and choice of programs is as wide as in any part of the country, cable television in this area is in "tremendous competition" with "over-the-air" programming, Possner said.

Long Beach Cablevision has investigated many local-origination ideas in the hope of inducing more subscribers to cable TV, "but none seems to be adequately tried or proven, and experimentation is very costly," Possner said.

He said it appears that, at least for the near future, the growth in cable TV in Long Beach may be "very slow."

In any case, Possner told the bureau in his report, the requested rate increase and converter rental fee is "minimal," and at most will only reduce the company's loss, or yield a small profit.

YOUR HOROSCOPE

by JEANE DIXON

Forecast for Sunday

Your birthday today: You now face a broad path of many alternatives, many opportunities—smothering going from in must recent years. Temptation to follow the easiest course must be put down consistently if you are to come out with what you will need. Today's natives harbor unusual ideas, are willing to go far afield, go it alone.

Aries (March 21-April 19): Be early for your community gatherings. It's time for family excursions, sentimental ventures. Short travels start a new team of thought.

Taurus (April 20-May 20): Enjoy what this Sunday forget about unrealistic schemes to make temporary conditions permanent. You attract support for your ideas.

Gemini (May 21-June 20): Depart from your usual habits for a pleasant, somewhat lazy holiday of mental stimulus—go easy on physical exertion. Catch up on correspondence.

Cancer (June 21-July 21): Get out, see how others live. Renew acquaintances, briefly, keep moving to take in everything worthwhile. News of romance cheers.

Leo (July 22-Aug. 22): Spread yourself a bit to absorb the rewards of good fellowship, social connections. Spending does not of itself get you anywhere.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Home and family are not to be neglected today. Cataloging up on neglected hobbies is time well invested. No shoptalk—leave work out of it.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Seek mental rather than physical pastimes. Stretch the day fruitfully, enjoy it all. Later hours bring inspiration, further plans.

Scorpio (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Early conferences with important people bring benefits, relief of doubts. Then organize a strongly successful day of simple celebration.

Sagittarius (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Get away from business considerations altogether. Concentrate on just being alive, in pleasant contact with those who mean a lot to you.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Further success requires hard work and putting aside pleasure for the time being. Finances are involved; watch the details. Complaining won't help.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Your money escapes at the slightest chance, leaving little to show for it. Apart from this, it's an exciting day of many interests, romance.

Pisces (Feb. 19-March 20): Family life thrives, although you your personal wishes can come true at the moment. Finances are promising, it's up to you to follow through.

Fruitful quarter century here Suddenly he's 65, and others will take over

By LES RODNEY
Religion Editor

There's no mandatory retirement at 65 for Presbyterian ministers, but Rev. Richard G. Irving will call it a pastoral career a week from Sunday.

"I thought after 25 years people deserved a change," the soft-spoken Texas native said with a smile this week.

Long Beach church life in general and Community Presbyterian of North Long Beach in particular won't be the same without Richard Irving, who has made himself felt well beyond the sanctuary walls at Orange near 63rd.

When he came here in 1949 from Santa Monica at age 40 he was a vigorous looking man with a full head of dark wavy hair. He is a vigorous looking man with a full head of dark wavy hair today. That's not an old picture of him. I know because we took it Wednesday.

And how does it feel to contemplate the awesome sound of "65"?

"It really just sneaked up on me," the minister said. "I remember at the beginning of my ministry thinking about it, it seemed so far off. Suddenly here it is. I don't feel too different, I don't even look too different. I move a little slower, is all."

HE HAS TO have mixed feelings about stepping down.

'Nixon has suffered...'

Dear Editor:

Re your story 'Leaders hit amnesty plan, cite Nixon' last Saturday:

Will it ever end? Even Protestant church executives can't seem to be grateful for the countless contributions. Richard Nixon has made to this country. Nixon has suffered and contributed, now let the draft evaders who have suffered also contribute!

Marys B. Levy
Seal Beach

"Yes, of course! You put roots down pretty deep. I've shared so much with the congregation, there are some pretty close ties..."

But then he's not leaving Long Beach, and "you can't break off such friendships, these things last a lifetime."

Immediate plans? "We'll take a little trip, visit friends, I still have two weeks vacation due. Then we'll settle into the home we bought in Lakewood Village. For the future I don't have any definite plans. I'll hold myself to be ready for calls to churches temporarily without pastors. In fact I was already invited to fill in at a church of another denomination."

Though he is most ecumenical minded, he passed on that one.

Has he thought about doing any writing? "You're the second one who's asked me that. No, that's not my gift. My abilities are pastoral, to be with people and talk with them."

Irving grew up in Fort Davis, which you never heard of unless you're a west Texan. "It's cattle ranching country about 200 miles east of El Paso," he says. "Half the town was Spanish speaking, most of them being Roman Catholics. My father was the Presbyterian minister for Fort Davis and another town. In those days we rarely went to a Catholic church, unless there was a wedding of someone who worked for us."

AFTER SCHOOLING at the University of Arizona, San Francisco Theological Seminary and a year at Union Theological Seminary, young Rev. Irving succeeded his father for a while, in Fort Davis, then moved to a pastorate in Pasadena, and from there to First of Santa Monica, where he helped establish that town's released time religious education program.

And on to Long Beach, at the age when the positive thinkers proclaim that "life begins." Anyhow, there was some truth in the old bromide for him.

REV. IRVING

In addition to pastoring a solidly thriving congregation, interfaith and community outreach have marked his quarter century here. President of both the Long Beach and North Long Beach Ministerial Associations, he has been an active committee worker for the YMCA, the Council of Churches and the Memorial Hospital counseling program. He led the committee which sponsored an historic Protestant-Catholic service in Municipal Auditorium. (He believes the ecumenical movement has helped change Long Beach for the better. "In that Auditorium service we got to know some priests in a personal way, and to fully appreciate them," he says. Starry-eyed dreams of church reunion are not his thing. "Cooperating, sharing, friendship, that's the practical and important thing for now.")

Irving has been active in working with the Carmelitos and Bell Gardens neighborhood centers in helping economically depressed people. He has led churchmen and churchwomen in practical assistance, and also in instituting services. For his own denomination, he has been moderator of the Southland Presbytery, dean of youth conferences and chairman of several key committees.

In 1972 he was honored with the Spotlight Award as Long Beach area "Minister of the Year."

THE UNITED Presbyterian Church has been buffeted by controversy in the past decade—the sometimes heated debates over the new Confession of 1967, the shock waves over the gift by an arm of the denomination to the Angela Davis defense fund, and more recently warm debates over restructuring. Has the church survived these things pretty well?

"I think so," was the response. "There is some pinch on money and resources, which isn't unique to the Presbyterians. I think along these lines there is a greater sense of responsibility awakening. There is a deeper sense of stewardship now that the resources are not automatically there to pay bills. Some overseas missions have been hurt, to be sure."

"But the cryers of doom have been proven wrong. We have weathered these so-called controversies, there has been a freedom of discussion and openness about it. Also, you know we are closer now to the Southern Presbyterians, I met many of them at Louisville, the conventions were simultaneous, there was a wonderful spirit."

"I'm really optimistic about the church. I feel very much at home in the United Presbyterian Church. I KNOW so many of the leaders, they came from the pastorate. I know they are good men, devoted and able..."

He also has a good word for Long Beach. "Long Beach has done a great deal for me," he says. "You know, when we moved here from Santa Monica in 1949, we felt there was no place like Santa Monica. Now we love Long Beach, and are convinced there is no place like it. It's a great city. I've revisited Santa Monica. We prefer it here." (Santa Monica Evening Outlook, do not copy.)

Mrs. Irving (Frances) is a former school teacher. The Irvings have two children, daughter Mrs. Jean Jones of Paramount (and grandson Jeff), and son Dick, also married, now

Good Twins Return

Dwight and Dwayne Good, favorites on the Revival Fires television program viewed by 155 stations coast to coast, will appear Sunday, 9:30 a.m. in Bethany Baptist Church, 2250 Clark Ave. They have produced 15 popular albums.

at Cal State Fullerton working on his masters in psychology, after a four year stint in the Air Force.

AS HE LEAVES the active pastoral ministry, does Rev. Richard Irving have any advice to pass along to young ministers coming in?

He is not really the pretentious, elder-citizen advising type. He does comment that there is sometimes tension between younger pastors and their congregations. "Young men tend to want things to happen fast, and people don't move that fast as a rule. But I see movement happening on both sides toward each other, and I am pleased to see it. A young pastor's nudging helps some folks to open up more, and on the other hand, the congregation tends to teach the young man the virtue of deliberation and patience. The key is the shared loyalty to Christ and the church universal."

"We have to keep our horizons out there, it's easy to get narrow and forget about all the people across the world. A congregation can help a minister to grow, and a minister can in turn help the congregation. At its best, it is an interlocking relationship of growth."

Rev. Richard G. Irving's final Sunday in the pulpit as pastor will be a week from tomorrow, Oct. 13, with a program at 2 p.m. and a reception to follow. The folks at Community Presbyterian will fetter the Irvings next Friday night.

We cannot consider any material for publication in the Saturday religion section unless we have it by Thursday noon.

Renewal mission at St. Matthew

Rev. Bill Kenney, a missionary priest of the Paulist community, will lead a "Parish Mission Renewal" open alike to the Catholic and non-Catholic public at St. Matthew's Church, Seventh and Temple, today through Oct. 27.

In the spirit of the Holy Year theme "Renewal and Reconciliation," the subject matters for the Sundays in October will be "The Crisis of Faith," "The Crisis of Morality," "The Crisis of Worship" and "The Crisis of Love, Marriage and Family."

Sunday schedule of Masses, at which Father Kenney will be present, is 7:30, 9, 10:30, noon and 5:30 p.m., also Saturday at 5:30 p.m. He will also conduct Twilight Retreats at 7:30 p.m. for women on Oct. 21, men on Oct. 22, youth on Oct. 23.

Father Kenney has taught at Mt. St. Mary's and Marymount Colleges, and is currently director of the Newman Center at UCLA.

Celebration at St. Paul's

St. Anselm's burns the 1952 mortgage

Impressive Anglican ceremonies last Sunday marked formal consecration of the sanctuary at St. Anselm of Canterbury Episcopal Church in Garden Grove, upon occasion of the "burning of the mortgage."

Present to salute the new debt-free status was the Rt. Rev. Robert Rusk, bishop of Los Angeles.

St. Anselm's, which began as a mission in 1952, meeting in the American Legion hall, is a parish of 400 active families, 1400 baptized members and 850 communicants.

Rev. Samir J. Habbib, rector since 1969, came to the church from active duty with the U.S. Navy as a chaplain. He served two tours of duty in Vietnam, was wounded, and was awarded two Bronze Star Medals with Combat V for valor. Habbib has served as chairman of the department of communications for the past two years for the Southland diocese.

Briefly... Schism closer; TV 'Godfather' rapped

Rev. Dr. J.A.O. Preus, embattled president of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod, is not about to allow synod "insurgents" a victory by default in the crucial matter of ordination and placement of Semtex grads. And he is ready to force the ouster of at least five district presidents if necessary rather than yield.

About two dozen graduates of Semtex, the seminary-in-exile formed by former professors and students at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis, the "moderates" in the bitter Synod theological fight, have been ordained and are now serving synod congregations. More ordinations are scheduled.

Faced with much broader "moderate" strength than had perhaps been anticipated, the Preus leadership compromised and agreed that if Semtex grads went to Concordia for interviews and received official approval from the faculty there, they could be ordained. Ten of the Semtex grads did this and were ordained. The others have refused—and still were ordained.

Says Preus: these ordinations are "null and void in our synod and the district presidents who have authorized (them) have violated their office" and should "in conscience, resign their office."

He is talking about the presidents of the English, Eastern, California-Nevada, Colorado and Atlantic Districts, major sections of the denomination.

Preus commented that "however well intentioned the authorization of certain men is, whatever appeals are made to a 'higher law of love,' the fact remains that this action...has brought the synod to a very grave hour in her history."

The ordinations, he added, "virtually destroyed" the corporate integrity of the Council of Presidents and were a "deliberate violation of constitutional authority." They leave "absolutely no control of any kind on the part of the member congregations in the synod," he said.

In addition to the five districts mentioned above, the presidents of the New England and New Jersey Districts have also authorized ordination of non-certified (by Concordia) candidates for the ministry.

Preus has personally written to all congregations involved asking them to encourage the Semtex grads to return to Concordia for the interview "so that he may serve you without a cloud over his ministry and over your status." He reportedly will seek individual interviews with the district presidents involved before formally asking for their resignation.

So the split moves inexorably toward a major schism.

AT THE congregational meeting last Sunday night, members of Bay Shore Community Congregational Church voted to call a new pastor. He is Rev. Dr. E. Lamar Kincaid of Oshkosh, Wis., who has accepted and will arrive here about Dec. 1 with his wife, Susan, who is a lecturer in psychology and religion.

Prior to his two years at First Church of Oshkosh, Kincaid pastored the Community Church of Longboat Key, Sarasota, Fla. for 10 years, and was credited with innovative programs to involve children, high school and college youth. He is a native of North Carolina, educated at Wake Forest, Duke and Union Theological Seminary.

ANNOUNCEMENT BY NBC that it will show the movie "The Godfather" on prime time television two nights in November brought a strong reaction by a Southern Baptist official, Harry N. Hollis, Jr., director of Family and Special Moral Concerns, and author of a forthcoming book on violence: "The Shoot 'Em Up Society."

Hollis calls NBC's decision (they reportedly paid $10 million for the film) "an outrageous example of upside down values... The Godfather is the essence of unhealthy violence... It elicits sympathy for some underworld people who make violence a way of life."

Excessive violence on television does cause some people to act violently, Hollis holds. And he makes the telling point: "To say that TV does not influence behavior is utterly foolish in light of the fact that sponsors will pick up the ten-million-dollar Godfather tab to motivate people through TV ads to buy their products."

He warns "If the television networks do not do a better job of regulating this kind of violence in their shows, they can expect tighter governmental controls. The people will demand it. But there is a better way. NBC should announce that it is going to cancel The Godfather and review all of its other shows to remove excessive violence. The other networks should clean house also."

Southern Baptists, says Hollis, "should not try to get NBC to adopt a denominational position on morality. But Southern Baptists, and all American citizens, should try to get NBC to exercise social responsibility in the face of our moral crisis related to violence."

LONG BEACH Goodwill is running short of clothing to work on. The hard working folks over there can use all the repairable clothing they can get hold of, especially this time of year.

NEARLY 200 Japanese Lutherans became acquainted with Iowa Lutherans during a two week visit here at the invitation of the Iowa district of the American Lutheran Church. The group spent five days with Iowa families (gaining some weight, no doubt!)

The Japanese Evangelical Lutheran Church traces its roots back to Finnish missionaries of the late 19th century.

A "CALL-IN" program is being presented nightly, 9:30-10 by the Studebaker Road Church of Christ on radio station KFOX, 1280 kc. Individuals may call in Bible questions and receive answers immediately.

Lutheran meet weighs abortion

Local, national, and international efforts to alleviate world hunger will be recommended to delegates at the seventh general convention of The American Lutheran Church (ALC) in Detroit Oct. 9-15.

A spirited debate on abortion may be a feature of the first day's session. An open hearing on "Abortion and Christian Counsel," is scheduled Thursday.

POSITIVE THINKING by Norman Vincent Peale

The build-you-up type

Ever notice how certain people always inspire you? Since enthusiasm can run down if you don't keep it going, such people are a real asset.

I've had a good share of these build-you-up personalities in my life. One was the late Dr. John W. Hoffman, president of the college I attended. He had an amazing ability for making young people believe in themselves simply because he believed in them. His faith in them helped to remove their self-doubts and inferiority feelings. Students loved him because he made them like themselves a little bit better.

I shall never forget walking home with Dr. Hoffman from a dinner on campus. As he bade me goodnight he punched me affectionately in the chest. "You've got something," he said. "I believe in you and will always be pulling for you." It was a mystic June night just before graduation—the future stretched excitingly ahead—and I walked home with the glorious feeling that maybe I really could do something in the world.

NATURALLY, I know he overestimated me; but he stimulated me and generations of young people to at least try to do their best. This unforgettable man was an inspiration-giver who is enshrined in the affectionate memory of a host of men and women.

Try believing in kids—and let them know that you do. It's bound to have a salutary effect upon them.

Another kind of priceless people are those who buck you up and keep you fighting on. I mean fighting on for what you believe in. This sometimes takes fortitude, especially when the opposition is formidable, and also especially when that opposition calls you names.

Harry Truman once said, "If you're afraid of getting burned better never get near the stove." Of course, if you are going to fight for principles and convictions you can hardly avoid a rough time now and then. That's a natural part of struggle. So don't weaken or back down. But all of us feel like doing so at times. We would like to get along with everyone—be one of the boys, so to speak. But if you yield to that temptation, while life may be easier it sure will be innocuous.

One time I was being given a rather rough time. I felt I was right but also realized that my position was not popular with some people—and they were hitting at me pretty hard. Being of a genial and friendly disposition I didn't find this conflict any too pleasant. Though never one to fold up, I'm ashamed to admit I was momentarily supine enough to wonder why I had stuck my neck out.

At this time I was fortunate to meet a couple of old friends; and, believe me, they proved to be inspiration-givers. One said, "Look, you can never change your image with people who are against you by backing down for them. So, if you believe you're right stand up to the opposition and hit hard for your convictions."

WELL, THIS kind of man-size advice was just what I needed. And I decided to think less about myself and my feelings and more about the things in which I believed—and get back into the fight.

Another inspiration-giver who helped me to do just that was Walter H. Annenberg, now United States Ambassador to England. When I was sitting with him in his office, surrounded by autographed photos of the world's great men—Churchill, Kennedy, MacArthur and many others—he quoted a few words which really bucked me up. It was a statement from Basil King's great book on fear: "Be bold and mighty powers will come to your aid."

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

HEAL?

Yes, it does. Because the healing Principle taught and practiced by Christ Jesus can apply to anyone at any time. New proofs of its healing power occur every day.

Healing in Christian Science means much more than physical release. It means a victory over fear. A clearer understanding of God, and of yourself.

You're invited to learn more at our Sunday service. The Bible Lesson you'll hear will explain more of how Christian Science heals.

Won't you come this Sunday?

Downtown Long Beach is not dying as far as Lawson's Jewelry at 250 Pine Ave. is concerned.

The store has been fully remodeled. Manager Tony Chaparro explained: "We have reinvested in the future of Downtown Long Beach. Why shouldn't we? Lawson's had a Long Beach downtown store since 1911."

Remodeling work included redecorating the walls, lowering the ceiling, installation of new lighting, improved air conditioning system, new carpeting and a redesign of the office space.

Chaparro said work on the store front is scheduled next.

Coast building on tap

With construction due to start on Coast Federal Savings and Loan Association's new San Pedro branch building, manager Don Lorenz will move his busy operation into temporary module structures in the adjacent parking area Sept. 23.

The $750,000 two-story new building will be built on the current site, 100 Pacific Avenue with completion expected in March.

Demolition of the old building is to start soon after the staff moves out.

Ross M. Blakely, board chairman and chief executive officer of the statewide association said:

"Our loyal account holders and Lorenz and his staff certainly deserve this modern new building offering virtually 9,000 square feet of light, air, space and many new amenities."

Knotts reveals expansion plans

Knott's Berry Farm, Buena Park, has announced a major expansion of its 160-acre amusement park, including a new 100,000-sq-ft indoor Game Room, giving Knott's the largest arcade in the West.

A totally new theme area, a re-creation of the "good time spirit of the '20s," is to be built on the site of the present Gypsy Camp.

In addition to the three new rides, a major dark ride and several other theme rides will be built. Also in planning are a new "Casino" and an intercon-

Woman 'guilty' in rape case death

MONTEREY (AP) — A jury found Inez Garcia guilty on Friday of second-degree murder in the slaying of a man she said helped rape her.

"I did it and I'm glad I did it!" Mrs. Garcia once screamed at one point during the emotional seven-week trial.

The jury of seven women and five men returned the verdict after nearly three days of deliberations.

After the verdict was read, Mrs. Garcia's son, John, 11, broke into tears. His mother comforted him for a few minutes before she was led from the courtroom by the bailiff.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson said he would sentence Mrs. Garcia, 38, on Oct. 21.

Mrs. Garcia and Fred Medrano, 25, were accused of slaying Miguel Jimenez, 21, last March. Mrs. Garcia said Jimenez and Luis Castillo, 17, raped her and tried to kill Medrano.

Lawson declared a mistrial after the jury failed to reach a verdict in Medrano's case and scheduled a new trial for him on Nov. 4.

DURING HER TRIAL, Mrs. Garcia testified that she was forced to strip and then was raped by Castillo while Jimenez held her. She said from the stand that moments afterward she killed Jimenez with a rifle.

"I killed the guy and I missed Luis but I meant to kill him too," she said. "The only thing is that I'm sorry I missed Luis."

Mrs. Garcia, of Soledad, could be sentenced from five years to life in prison.

The courtroom was crowded with feminists who had attended the trial. They said the case illustrated why many rapes go unreported.

At one point, Mrs. Garcia was asked to draw a diagram of the rape scene. At another, Deputy Dist. Atty. Arthur Braudick asked what Jimenez was doing while his friend allegedly raped her.

"He was watching me have sex with this creep and he was enjoying watching this creep have sex with me," she said.

INEZ GARCIA, with her son, John, 11, a short time before a jury convicted her of second-degree murder in the death of a man she claimed held her as his companion allegedly raped her.

Police probe ambush theory in alleged rapist shooting

By LOU GODFREY
Staff Writer

Long Beach homicide detectives Friday pressed their probe into the developing complexities of what they say may be a "rape revenge" slaying of a Santa Ana man by a 19-year-old Long Beach woman.

The slaying Thursday of

Danny Charles Allen, 21, at the duplex of Deborah Joy Kantaeng, at 1812 E. 56th St., drew national attention from the news media when Long Beach police reported that the woman had admitted she shot Allen because he and another man allegedly had raped her Wednesday and she "feared for her life."

was safe to return to the location, and then he gave himself up to officers outside the duplex.

Police said Mrs. Kantaeng, whose husband may have been deported to Taiwan, claimed that on Wednesday evening as she left the Los Cerrillos Shopping Center she was abducted by Tice and Allen.

The woman alleged that she was taken at knife-point to a park in Santa Ana where the two men raped her, investigators said. They said Mrs. Kantaeng told police she was released after she gave them her phone number and promised not to call police. She then was allowed to call relatives who came and picked her up.

AT THE same time, police have indicated that because of conflicting statements by witnesses, they have to consider the possibility that the slaying was an ambush.

Homicide Sgt. Don Blachowski said that in addition to news media, feminist groups had been inquiring about the case, apparently prepared to come to her defense.

Mrs. Kantaeng was booked on a murder charge Thursday after the shooting at her home, which she shared with her mother, a sister and two brothers. She was arrested there immediately after the shooting of Allen, who lived at 1932 W. Mark St., in Santa Ana. She is to be arraigned next week in Long Beach Superior Court.

ALSO BOOKED on charges of murder and rape was Carl Stevie Tice, 21, of 1611 Santa Ana Blvd., Santa Ana. Tice had accompanied Allen to the duplex, but he fled from the neighborhood after Allen was shot in the neck with a .410-gauge shotgun as he walked in the door.

Investigators said Tice called police shortly after the shooting, asking if it not been with Allen on Wednesday evening. They said Tice admitted being in Allen's apartment Thursday and he claimed that Allen got a phone call from a girl who, according to Allen, lived in Long Beach.

Police said Tice claimed that Allen later called the Long Beach girl's phone and it was answered by a man who identified himself as the girl's brother. The man allegedly said his sister was out but to come on over because she would be there when he (Allen) got there.

Tice claimed that when he and Allen got to the apartment they were told by a man standing outside to go on inside the Kantaeng duplex, investigators said.

INSIDE THE apartment at the time of the shooting was Mrs. Kantaeng, her father, Robert Boyd, her brother, Steve M. Boyd, 20, and Steve Boyd's girl friend, Kerrie Jean Axt, 23.

Also arrested at the scene shortly after the shooting was John Thomas Hughes, 30, of 1108 Via Wanda, Long Beach, police said. Hughes was booked on a charge of possession of a dagger, but he was released on $500 bail.

Police said Hughes apparently made two suspicious phone calls to the Kantaeng home while investigators were still there. It first appeared that Hughes might have some information about the slaying but police said they have not determined what role, if any, Hughes may have played.

Parents 'standing by' her Court won't cut Patty's bail

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The parents of Patricia Hearst asked a federal court Friday to reduce her $500,000 bail in an effort to win her surrender, but the judge refused.

Attorney James MacInnis, who said he was appearing on behalf of Miss Hearst at the request of her parents, urged U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter to lower bail as a means of getting a message to the 20-year-old woman that her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, still are willing to stand by her.

Miss Hearst was kidnapped in Berkeley Feb. 4 by the Symbionese Liberation Army (SLA) but on April 3 she renounced her family in a taped message and said that she had joined the terrorist group.

"The real purpose of this is that the parents of Patricia Hearst are endeavoring to send a message to her through every possible channel, whether through the press or underground," MacInnis said. "They want to get word to the girl that if she surfaces or surrenders herself, bail will be set at a reasonable amount."

Carter said he was "very sympathetic" but that it was a matter over which he had no control.

"When Miss Hearst appears before the court, then we can negotiate what reasonable bail would be," he said.

The $500,000 bail is on a two-count federal grand jury indictment charging her with bank robbery and use of firearms to commit a felony. She and two SLA members were accused of the $10,600 holdup of a Hibernia bank branch in San Francisco on April 15.

The other accused participants died in a fiery shootout with police at an SLA hideout in Los Angeles May 17.

Miss Hearst also is charged in Los Angeles with a violation of the federal firearms act, and bail for her in that case was set at $500,000. She also faces a variety of state charges including kidnaping, for which bail has been set at $500,000.

Miss Hearst's parents, who live in suburban Hillsborough, did not appear in court. Hearst is president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

Kaylor's trial will be set following the Oct. 22 review of the charges, it was indicated.

He is accused of collecting from investors on the real estate deals described as "speculation schemes" and then letting the properties go by default in late 1972.

Drug official to testify on harm in marijuana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Dr. Robert DuPont, a top government drug official, will tell Congress Monday of new evidence of harm from long-term use of marijuana, his executive assistant said Friday.

DuPont is director of both the White House Special Action Office for Drug Abuse Prevention and the National Institute on Drug Abuse. His assistant, Richard Bucher, said that DuPont would testify Monday that:

"Within the last two years, continuing research has turned up evidence of changes in basic cellular mechanisms, and initial research indicates that there may be adverse immunological and genetic implications for long-term or heavy marijuana use."

Lou Grant falls for waitress

By BOB MARTIN
TV-Radio Editor

Romance comes to Lou Grant on "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" tonight.

The gruff TV newsroom boss is just putty in the hands of a charmer named Charlene, played by Sheree North.

That is, until the newsroom gang steps in and keeps kidding him about Charlene's three marriages and her occupation as a saloon singer.

The show, which airs at 9 p.m. on Channel 2, marks the 100th episode of the award-winning comedy series, which is in its fifth year.

Since it premiered on Sept. 15, 1970, "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" has consistently been one of the most entertaining series on the air. Miss Moore is one important reason, of course, and Edward Asner — as Lou Grant — is another. Ed has won a couple of supporting role Emmys as the lovable tough guy.

The series is one key reason why Saturday night belongs to CBS when it comes to television. A week ago, for example, in the overall Nielsen averages for the evening, CBS attracted 43.5 per cent of the viewers, compared with 27.4 for NBC and 22 for ABC.

"All in the Family" led off with 53 per cent, "Paul Sand in Friends and Lovers" had 37 per cent, "Mary Tyler Moore" 46 per cent, "Bob Newhart Show" 45 per cent and "Carol Burnett Show" 40.5 per cent.

CBS also was the leader on Monday, Tuesday and

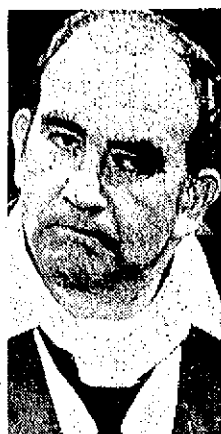

MARY TYLER MOORE

Thursday nights last week. NBC took Friday and Sunday, and ABC topped the Wednesday night ratings.

BEFORE GETTING her own series, Miss Moore played Laura Petrie on "The Dick Van Dyke" series for five years, winning two Emmys in the process.

Van Dyke no longer has a series, but you can see him Sunday night as guest star on NBC's "Columbo," with Peter Falk, from 8:30 to 10:30 on Channel 4.

This time, the nice guy comedian portrays his first villain. As a henpecked photographer, Dick plots the slaying of his domineering wife by means of a phony kidnapping scheme.

The role is only the second dramatic part Van Dyke has played on TV. In the first, he gained an Emmy nomination as the alcoholic in "The Morning After" TV movie.

"COLUMBO" was the winner over "Kojak" in the popularity parade when the two police shows clashed in the season's opening week. Both will face tough competition on ABC tomorrow night when the popular 1971 movie "The Last Picture Show" airs on television for the first time (9 to 11:30 p.m., Ch. 7). But they at least have the advantage of starting a half-hour earlier than the movie.

Incidentally, in case you were wondering, director Peter Bogdanovich reportedly has edited three minutes of "The Last Picture Show" for TV, eliminating the nude scene and some rough language.

"MURDER MUST Advertise," a new, four-part mystery starring Ian Carmichael as Lord Peter Wimsey, will have its debut from 8:30 to 9:30 Sunday night on Channel 28, marking the start of a new season of "Masterpiece Theatre" presentations.

Following "Murder Must Advertise," based on the detective novel by Dorothy Sayers, "Masterpiece Theatre" will present 12 new episodes of "Upstairs, Downstairs," beginning Nov. 3.

Then will come "Country Matters," starting Feb. 2, "Vienna 1900," beginning March 2, and "The Nine Tailors," starting April 13.

ESTHER ROLLE, star of the "Good Times" comedy series, guest stars this morning, from 11 to 11:30, on "The Harlem Globetrotters' Popcorn Machine." It's on Ch. 2. The rotund Miss Rolle portrays "Cinderella" in a spoof of the classic fairy tale.

Finley has the last word on Oakland's lineup today

OAKLAND (UPI)—The Oakland A's and the Baltimore Orioles, two teams so similar you could fool almost everyone if they swapped uniforms, open the 1974 American League playoffs today with the A's 13-10 favorites but the Orioles holding a pitching edge.

"In a short series such as this," said A's manager Alvin Dark on the eve of the best-of-five playoff to determine the American League champion, "the only thing that counts is pitching. While I like my pitching very much, you have to concede the Orioles the edge."

What Dark meant is that his trio of Jim (Catfish) Hunter, a 25-game winner, Ken Holtzman, who has won 19, and Vida Blue, who has won 17, is equal to any three pitchers the Orioles choose to use but the Birds have the upper hand beyond that. Dark also had to concede the edge to his owner — Charles O. Finley — who overruled Dark on the question of today's lineup.

The "extra" man on the Baltimore side is Ross Grimsley, with three victories over the A's this year. However, manager Earl Weaver is putting Grimsley in the bullpen for the playoffs and will go instead with Mike Cuellar, a 22-game winner, Dave McNally, who has won 16 and the comebacking Jim Palmer, who has won seven.

"I've got to go with my experienced men," Weaver said. "Besides, of the four pitchers, Grimsley is the strongest and thus is able to pitch in every game in relief if I need him. He's my ace in the hole."

Hunter, who still admits to butterflies even though he has won every key game in the last two championship seasons, pitches today's opener, which gets under way at 1 p.m. with an anticipated crowd of around 45,000.

Cuellar, who has lost three times to Oakland this year, will be his opponent. After a 2 1/2-hour closed door meeting with Finley, Dark announced his lineup for the first game.

Ray Fosse, out more than half the season following neck surgery, will start behind the plate and Angel Mangual will be the A's designated hitter.

There had been speculation that Fosse would not start, Gene Tenace would catch, Joe Rudi would play first and rookie Claudell Washington would be in left.

"We decided," said Dark, "this would be the best lineup. Had we gone with the other, we would have had two players out of their natural positions."

Dark earlier announced he would start Washington somewhere in the lineup but after meeting with Finley Mangual was substituted as the designated hitter, even though Washington hits well against Cuellar.

The Orioles have no such problems since Weaver sticks basically with the same lineup except for a change in right hander, Rich Coggins will play in right today. Left-handers Holtzman and Blue will start the next two games for the A's, so Enos Cabell will replace Coggins.

2 share lead in Calif. Open

SANTA CRUZ (UPI)—Roger Maltbie of San Jose and Jim Powell of San Dimas tied for the second round lead Friday in the $30,000 California Open golf tournament.

Maltbie shot a 68 for a 36-hole total of 136, and Powell was a stroke better at 67 on the DeLavena and Pasatiempo courses.

St. Paul outlasts Carson

By GREG VAUGHAN

St. Paul High stopped a two-point conversion two yards short of the goal line Friday night and squeezed past Carson, 14-12, at East Los Angeles Stadium.

Moments earlier So'o Naulupe had raced 80 yards untouched after scooping up a St. Paul fumble. Trailing by two points with the clock showing 4:01 remaining, quarterback Samoa handed off to Isaac Cooper for the extra point try. Cooper was gang tackled at the two, and the Colts never threatened again.

Carson scored in the second quarter following the first of five St. Paul fumbles. The Colts drove 11 yards in seven plays.

Carson's first drive was capped by Van Weise's 50-yard gallop off left tackle. A wide kick gave Carson a 6-0 lead.

Using the big play, St. Paul went on top to stay a minute later with 2:03 remaining in the half. Swordsman Ed Luther uncorked a 63-yard sideline pass to tight end Javier Lopez, who was pulled down at the five by Weise and Henry Williams.

On the next play Rick Gibbons shot up the middle for the score, and with Luther's kick St. Paul grabbed a 7-6 lead. Gibbons rushed for 99 yards in 21 carries.

Early in the third quarter the Colts marched 30 yards for a first down at the St. Paul four. But the Swordsman defense held firm and they gained possession at the one.

Mayfair rolls, 28-7

Senior Greg McSparran ran for three touchdowns to lead the Mayfair Monarchs to a 28-7 non-league victory over Duarte Friday night.

Mayfair jumped ahead 7-0 when Donny Popovich hit McSparran for a 13-yard TD. Popovich hit Rick Johnson for a 35-yard scoring strike later in the first period.

Anthony Ross cut the deficit to seven points with a 16-yard scoring run, but McSparran put the game away with scoring runs of 20 and 8 yards.

Popovich hit on 13 of 22 passes for 228 yards.

The victory, which brings Mayfair's record to 2-0-1, was engendered by the strong defensive rush of Mike Curvi, Don Bauer and Chuck Pinner, who took turns sacking Duarte QB Reno Lee.

On the next play Rick Gibbons shot up the middle for the score, and with Luther's kick St. Paul grabbed a 7-6 lead. Gibbons rushed for 99 yards in 21 carries.

Poly out of its class; Dos Pueblos rolls, 21-7

By RICK ARTHUR Staff Writer

SANTA BARBARA — After successive victories against comparative lightweights Salesian and Cantwell, Poly High's football team was roughed up, punched out and eventually kayoed by heavyweight host Dos Pueblos here Friday night.

Before a partisan crowd of 1,500 at UC Santa Barbara, the Jackrabbits sustained a 21-7 setback — their first under new coach Mike Searpace. After exploding for six touchdowns last week and four the previous week, Poly was held to only one score by the rough and tumble Chargers.

Adding insult to injury, a Poly defense that held its first two foes to only one touchdown surrendered three scores to Dos Pueblos and allowed 193 yards rushing and 83 passing.

The Jackrabbits managed to get on the scoreboard first, but it was all uphill thereafter.

Poly scored on its second possession of the game, benefitting from a Greg Swan punt that went only one yard, giving the Hares the ball at their own 23. Three quick thrusts by fullback Artie Hargrove ended with a 14-yard scoring dash. Marc Smith kicked the extra point.

In the second quarter, the Chargers' Tony Martinez intercepted a Greg Hopkins pass and returned it 29 yards to Poly's 35. Rob Mattos scored on a two-yard plunge five plays later and Swan redeemed himself, throwing against the Pirates. This year he appeared in seven games, was 1-1 and had a 4.91 ERA.

Iron Mike tuned up Thursday by throwing 20 minutes of batting practice. Manager Walter Alston was his usual calm self at the workout, offering a tip here and there but spending most of his time answering reporters' questions.

Asked about the long season, Alston remarked, "It's tough to play 162 games and win a division, it's tough to win a short series to get into the World Series, and it's tough to win the World Series, another short series."

"It seems like an impossibility when you look at it in April. But somebody's going to do it. . . it might as well be us."

DODGER DOPE: Bill Buckner was robbed of $300 in his hotel room by an intruder. The Pirates are expecting crowds of 30,000 today and Sunday. The weather has warmed considerably, after dipping below freezing Friday morning. Two years ago the Dodgers were 10-2 against the Pirates, 5-1 at Three Rivers. Dave Larys batted .333 against the Pirates, best among the Dodger regulars. Richie Ziskit .315, for a two-point conversation on a fake PAT kick.

A 55-yard, 11-play march gave the Chargers their second TD on their first series after halftime.

Another lengthy drive — 86 yards in 10 plays — accounted for the final dos Pueblos score in the fourth quarter.

Poly was repeatedly its own enemy, surrendering three interceptions and 55 yards in penalties that consistently stopped scoring drives.

Quarterbacking duo Hopkins and Michael Washington suffered through subpar performances, combining for only nine completions in 20 attempts.

In addition, Hopkins was sacked six times for a loss of 38 yards and Washington was dumped twice for 25.

Mattos was the workhorse for the winners, rushing 19 times for 65 yards.

Poly will try to regroup in Long Beach next Friday night against Santa Maria.

OAKLAND (AP) — California rookie Wayne King scored on a second-period rebound to give the Seals a 1-1 National Hockey League exhibition tie with the winless Kings (0-4-2) Friday night at the Oakland Coliseum.

King beat goalie Gary Edwards at 14:38 of the middle period when he picked up John Stewart's rebound in front of the Kings' net.

The Kings scored their only goal at 5:44 of the first period when Mike Murphy centered a pass for Gene Carr who put the puck past California goalie Garry Simmons.

Portland rookie sank only three of 11 field goal attempts against more experienced opponents.

A sellout crowd of more than 13,000 at the University of Dayton Arena watched Jabbar connect on 13 of 23 shots from the floor against Walton, as well as a pair of free throws. Jabbar dominated the red-haired Walton inside with his left and right-handed sky hooks.

Meanwhile, Walton, who made an NCAA record 68 per cent of his floor shots last season, managed less than 25 per cent of his field goal tries against Jabbar.

The only consolation for Walton, who led UCLA to the national collegiate title last winter, was in rebounding. Walton had a 16-10 edge off the boards.

Jabbar, three inches taller and 20 pounds heavier than his touted rookie rival, gave Walton a pro lesson in the first 12 1/2 minutes, when the three-time NBA Most Valuable Player outscored the Portland newcomer 17-5.

Walton was on the verge of an offensive attack, it fumbled. Quarterback Alan Parks, dropped the snap and Tuiasosopo recovered on the Panther 10.

Two plays later Veeder dashed nine yards around left end, hurdling a would-be Panther tackler, to score. Carney converted for the 16-0 margin of victory.

Veeder was helped in the running department by John Hauck. Hauck rushed for 58 yards (7.25 avg.) as the Saints gained 150 yards on the ground.

Long Beach State in big trouble tonight

By JIM McCORMACK
Staff Writer

SAN JOSE — Long Beach State has escaped the Bottom Ten for the first time in a year, but coach Wayne Howard may be suffering from the after effects.

Howard feels tonight's Long Beach State-San Jose State Pacific Coast Athletic Assn. game may be a candidate for Rout of the Week.

The contest commences at 7:30.

"San Jose is two touchdowns better than Pacific," Howard declares, comparing the Spartans to a team which trounced the 49ers, 38-6.

Last spring Howard said San Jose would be one of the three best teams on Long Beach State's schedule. He has changed his mind.

"This is the best football team we will face," says

Howard. "San Diego State is a very good football team, but, off films, San Jose is better."

Statistics bear out Howard's contention.

The Spartans, coached by former Jordan High and Long Beach City College graduate Darryl Rodgers, rank No. 1 in the conference in defense, yielding 239 yards per game, and No. 2 in offense, averaging 353.5 yards per game.

Stopping San Jose is Long Beach's first priority.

The Spartans are led by Craig Kimball, who directs a passing attack that ranks among the finest in the nation. Kimball, the country's No. 6 passer as a junior, is averaging 185 yards a game throwing to such talented receivers as Ike McBee, Gary Maddox, Mike Hopkins, Chris Mouyner and Dan Prager.

The 49ers will attempt to defeat San Jose with a defensive unit that has been revamped for the fourth consecutive week.

The adjustments for San Jose include the promotion of Ken Blumenthal to first team strong safety. Greg Bailey, last week's starter at that position, has been moved to free safety, where he will alternate with Jeff Jones.

The 49ers have stopped the shuffling along the defensive line — "We have no more moves to make," says Howard — and will go with a unit of ends Curtiss Wright, Gary Balch and Willie Guillory; tackles Charles Montgomery, Doug Stewart, Charles Jones and Fred Bryant and middle guards Willie Scott and Jeff Lyalls.

Moving the ball against San Jose's defense is the No. 2 priority.

Long Beach's offense, which ran for 306 yards in last week's 20-13 victory over Drake, will butt heads with a rush defense that yields only 115.8 yards per contest.

LBSU blocker's Tony Shipp, Jose Klein, Rudy Huerta, Augie Olgy, Tom Patrick, John Maruska, Leancil Jones and Russ Bolinger face quite a challenge, and their success will key the travels of fullback Tommy Nathan, halfback Herb Lusk and quarterback Bob Dalich.

Radio station KNAC-FM (95.5) will provide pregame, halftime and postgame reports of the game and channel 8 cablevision will pick up and carry a live audio report from the San Jose State network.

In pointing out that San Jose is two touchdowns better than Pacific, Howard does not say he thinks the 49ers are improved, too.

But Howard knows, using his handicapping scale, Long Beach must be 46 points better than it was two weeks ago just to tie the Spartans.

BRUINS READY FOR A LAUGHER

By GARY RAUSCH
Staff Writer

SALT LAKE CITY — Tom Lovat squirmed in his chair. Every 10 minutes or so he would stand up, walk to a nearby window and stare toward the mountains to the west.

Then word came from a secretary. The UCLA football charter had just landed at Salt Lake International Airport.

"Nuts!" said the Utah head football coach. "Do you know where we can find a small, slow team to play?" he asked.

Lovat is looking forward to sending his Utes against the visiting Bruins tonight the way a condemned man awaits the electric chair. The execution in Rice Stadium begins at 6:30 (PDT).

"WE'LL SHOW UP," the 35-year-old Lovat said, none too emphatically. UCLA is a prohibitive 24-point favorite to send Utah to its third defeat in three outings.

Lovat and the Bruins' Dick Vermeil are first-year college head coaches. The comparison ends there. Lovat didn't pour-mouth his club Friday, but he didn't appear very optimistic either.

"We've been very impressed with UCLA and its ability to come back from the Iowa loss and play as well as it did against Michigan State," Lovat said.

"John Sciarra, in my opinion, is one of the greatest athletes in the college game. We saw all we wanted of him as a sophomore last year."

The Bruins were leading 42-0 after two quarters in last year's 66-16 rout of Utah at the Coliseum. Sciarra completed 6 of 10 passes for 94 yards and one touchdown as UCLA ran up 556 yards in rough-shod fashion.

That Bruin offensive show came

...And the Trojans, too Hawkeyes face up to reality

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

There's more than fall corn growing in Iowa these days.

Football interest also is on the rise in the land of the Hawkeyes, who ended a 12-game losing streak two weeks ago.

But Iowa coach Bob Commings fears his followers will be jolted back to reality when the Hawkeyes face USC in the Trojans' home opener, commencing at 1:30 p.m. today in the Coliseum.

The Trojans are favored by 29 points.

"From the films I've seen, USC has more talented athletes than any team we've played," says Commings, whose Hawkeyes are 1-2 after encounters with Michigan, UCLA and Penn State.

"Our kids learned a bitter lesson last week against Penn State," says Commings of the Hawkeyes' 27-0 loss. "They found out they can't play with anybody on ability."

"For us to have a chance to win, we have to play the game with a lot of emotion and mental toughness."

Those ingredients apparently were present two weeks ago when the Hawkeyes upended UCLA, 21-10, touching off a celebration which lasted until Penn State returned Iowa fans to earth.

"We just couldn't handle success," says Commings, who was a terror as a 174-pound defensive lineman when Forest Evanshewski brought an Iowa team to the Rose Bowl in 1957.

Commings, who returned to his alma mater last spring after posting a 94-21-5 record as a high school coach in Massillon, O., faces a difficult assignment today.

USC, which lost its season opener at Arkansas, began displaying signs of precision and power in a 16-7 victory at Pittsburgh last week.

After a shaky start at Arkansas and in the early part of the Pitt game, quarterback Pat Haden began passing sharply. But he was knocked unconscious shortly before halftime, and JC transfer Vince Evans came on to rumble and fumble in a Jekyll-Hyde performance that left Trojan coach John McKay happy and slap-happy.

Haden sustained a concussion in the Pitt game, we see a good passing game," says McKay.

Iowa quarterback Rob Pick has completed 25 of 48 passes for 297 yards and two touchdowns. His primary receivers have been fullback Mark Fetter and tight end Brandt Yocom.

Fetter also is the Hawkeyes' leading rusher with 139 yards in 32 carries, hardly an afternoon of work for the Trojans' Davis.

It's too bad about WSU, Wake Forest

Combined News Services

Ohio State and Oklahoma, the nation's top-ranked college football teams, put their No. 1 and No. 2 ratings on the line today against opponents with a combined record of 1-5.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State invade Seattle for a meeting with 1-2 Washington State, while the Sooners of Oklahoma stay at home to entertain — if that's the word — 0-3 Wake Forest.

Elsewhere among the top ten, third-ranked Alabama is in Jackson, Miss., for a Southeastern Conference clash with Mississippi; No. 4 Michigan visits Stanford, and fifth-rated Texas A&M has a road game against rugged Kansas.

Arkansas at Texas Christian.

The latest word is that Washington State and Wake Forest will show up for their battles with Ohio State and Oklahoma — you'll notice that the initials for Ohio-Washington and Oklahoma-Wake spell OW! — even though their coaches might like to get caught in a traffic jam en route to the stadium.

Washington State's Jim Sweeney thinks the Ohio State players "want to bring Woody (Coach Woody Hayes) to his knees and have him say publicly this is his best team. They also know Woody won't do this unless they have a perfect season."

"Ohio State not only has good personnel and excellent coaching, but it combines technique and discipline. There isn't any team that combines these two phases any better than the Buckeyes."

"They don't do that many things on offense, but they do their own thing so well they become that much more versatile looking. Their sprint drill featuring Archie Griffin is a devastating weapon and Cornelius Greene may be the finest quarterback in the country."

The oddsmakers apparently agree with Sweeney because they've made the Buckeyes a solid 27-point choice.

So much for Washington State. If Wake Forest's Chuck Mills gets out of Norman, Okla., alive, the next two weekends find him visiting Penn State and Maryland. Did someone say Snake River Canyon?

"They were simply awesome," Mills exclaimed following Oklahoma's 72-3 slaughter of Utah State last weekend. "That's about all you can say."

Orange Coast offers Vikings a rugged test

By PAUL McLEOD
Staff Writer

When Long Beach City College met Orange Coast College last year, Pete Tereschuk threw an 80-yard touchdown pass to Junior Lee on the first play of the game. The Vikings never scored again.

Tonight at Veterans Stadium, beginning at 7:30, LBCC will square off against the Pirates, but this year the circumstances will be different.

Lee has graduated, but Tereschuk remains. The Vikings defense, which last year surrendered only 15 points in two games before meeting Orange Coast, has allowed 58 during the same span. The Vikings have allowed 859 total yards, nearly 700 coming on the ground. Last season Long Beach had allowed less than 200 yards rushing.

Last season the Vikings held a 1-1 record before tangling with the Pirates. Tereschuk guided the Vikings to a 10-7 lead late in the third quarter, kicking the PAT and adding a 22-yard field goal with seconds remaining in the half.

With a third and goal on the Orange Coast five yard line, Tereschuk rolled to his right and attempted to hit Lee in the corner of the end zone. But as he released the ball from the 12 he was knocked to the ground. Pirate defensive back Mike Lacy stepped in front of Lee and intercepted the pass at the five, then rambled untouched for the winning touchdown.

This year the Vikings will try to stop a powerful Orange Coast running at-Nebraska, ranked sixth, plays host to Minnesota; No. 7 Notre Dame visits Michigan State; eighth-ranked North Carolina State entertains East Carolina; No. 9 Southern California is at home against Iowa and Texas Tech, rated 10th, meets Oklahoma State in a night game at Lubbock.

Other games involving teams in the second ten find Texas-El Paso at No. 12 Arizona at night; Louisiana State at No. 13 Florida; California at No. 14 Illinois; No. 15 Penn State at Army; No. 17 Pitt at North Carolina; No. 18 Arizona State at Wyoming; Washington at No. 19 Texas and No. 20

Tucker said he probably will defense against Tereschuk.

"When a team has an excellent passer like him you've got to worry about the pass. We'll probably drop our linebackers off a few yards or rush more people to throw him off balance."

NORSE NOTES: A seeding system will determine the brackets for the large AAA divisions of the 1974 football playoffs of the California Community and Junior College Assn. At a meeting in Los Angeles the CCA's Committee On Athletics voted to hold the small AA division playoffs in fact, but opted for a committee meeting of coaches' representatives immediately following the regular season to determine representatives for the AAA bracket. The AA bracket will be held under a three division setup. . . . The COA also voted to accept a request from Sun-Kist Growers, Inc. to sponsor the state basketball championships to be held in Fresno's Selland Arena March 13-15. . . . The COA has decided to eliminate third place games at the tournament. . . . Bakersfield remained the No. 1 team in the state according to the JC Athletic Bureau last week. Nationally the Renegades moved up two spots to third position according to the J.C. Grid Wire. El Camino fell from second to fifth statewide and from 10th to 17th nationally. Pasadena had a bye last week but moved up three notches statewide to the third position. Redkey College is second. Fullerton moved up seven places to the 14th spot after tying El Camino. The Hornets were ranked second in the pre-season poll behind defending champion Fresno. Fresno is 18th and meets Bakersfield tonight. . . . The Renegades suffered a bad blow two weeks ago against Cerritos when quarterback David Nash was lost for the remainder of the season with a broken ankle. The injury was not detected until after the game when Nash complained of pain. He was taken for X-rays and was forced to undergo surgery to correct the break.

Miss Alcott, the 1973 national junior girls' champion, opened her round on the 6,180-yard Cameron Park Country Club course with a 20-foot birdie putt.

She said after the round that first putt was "the cushion I like to have" and she tallied four more birdies and a bogey on her way to a 34-35-card.

Marilynn Smith of Tequesta, Fla., had four birdies and a lone bogey on the par-73 layout to take second place with Sandra Palmer, the defending champion from Dallas, was in a four-way tie for third at 71 with Mary Mills, Laura Baugh and Betsy Cullen.

PRESIDENT

'75 FORDS

All the Great New Models including the . . . Granada,
Mustang II and Elite

CHUCK BOYER
VICE PRESIDENT

Look close at a new car designed to give you efficient use of space, fuel and money.
Ford Granada.

The Design:

Ford Granada is designed to help deal with such problems as crowded roads, increased fuel cost and maintenance. Granada is about two feet shorter and a half ton lighter than most standard-size cars. So you can expect excellent gas mileage. Yet there's family-size room inside with plenty of head room and trunk space.

The Economics:

A luxurious car today has to earn its keep. Granada doesn't back away from that fact. It's trim design helps reduce need-less weight and excessive fuel consumption. Granada's base engine is a Six with solid state ignition that's economical and easy to maintain. And it comes with gas-saving radial ply tires.

The Construction:

Granada is put together to stay together. Precision machinery holds body parts in tight alignment as they are welded into a solid unit. In a separate process, the body panels are treated to help minimize vibration. To help protect against rust, Granada's body is covered with 13 pounds of primers and chip-resistant baked enamel. And every Granada is subjected to hundreds of inspections while it's being built. The feeling inside Granada is solid and secure; it hugs the road. It has about the weight of a Mercedes 280.
